Search Continues for Barge Loaded With Deadly Chlorine

By BILL CRIDER
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Johnson pumped men, money and materials into hurricane-torn Louisiana today as the New Orleans coroner slashed his estimate of the probable death toll.
The White House dispatched $2 million as a token start toward helping rejuvenate the tragedy-stricken state, where 52 were known dead.
Plans were afoot to convert Louisiana's antipoverty program into a war on Hurricane Betsy. A million dollars was earmarked to put the Youth Corps to work cleaning up the debris.
Sixty freight carloads of surplus foods were sent by the Department of Agriculture.
The flood tides and fierce winds of Hurricane Betsy inflicted the greatest destruction on Louisiana in the state's storm-scarred history.
Embarrassing Situation
Coroner Nicholas Chetta, confessing "an embarrassing situation," told newsmen late Monday night that he had been misled by poor communications into preparing for several hundred dead from downriver Plaquemines Parish.
Chetta said he finally reached the isolated parish by telephone at 10 p.m. and only then could Plaquemines authorities tell him the true story: only 20 — not 200 to 250 — bodies would be sent to New Orleans today for the coroner's care.
Chetta said he did not know how the rumors started about 200 to 250 deaths. "This was

Congressional Kin Gronouski Releases Summer Help List

WASHINGTON (AP) — With school starting and summer jobs completed, the Post Office Department has cleared the way for naming the students and other young people it hired under a special job program.
Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, in lifting a ban on disclosure of the hiring lists, disclosed that 39 per cent of the summer employees were recommended by Congress members.
Some congressmen already have said their own sons were on the summer pay roll.
The other 61 per cent, Gronouski said, were referred by state employment and other local service agencies or by postmasters.
GOP Charge
Some Republicans, among them Reps. Albert H. Quie of Minnesota and H. R. Gross of Iowa, had charged that many of the 8,600 summer employees were improperly selected under a program they said was designed for youths who needed money to continue their education.
Gronouski, defending the program, said a survey showed that 94.7 per cent of the summer workers plan to use their earnings to help pay for their education. The percentage was about the same for those hired on congressional recommendations, he said.
In the face of congressional and newspaper demands that the lists be made public, Gronouski had refused, saying it might "embarrass some of these innocent individuals by

SAC Bombers Continue Hits On Red Forces

Suspected Areas Near Saigon Are B52's Targets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. B52 jet bombers blasted a suspected Viet Cong stronghold today in a raid about 20 miles north of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said.
Bombs from the eight-engine Strategic Air Command planes saturated a target south of Ben Cat, a district town in Binh Duong Province, the spokesman said. It was the 23rd announced strike in the war by the Guam-based bombers.
Due to security rules, the spokesman did not disclose further details.
Also in Binh Duong Province, government troops bolstered by air support threw back an attack by a big Viet Cong force 20 miles northwest of Saigon, a spokesman said.
Government losses were light and Viet Cong casualties were not known, he said. An estimated two battalions of guerrillas, possibly more than 1,000 men, battled against one government battalion.
5,000 Troops
Five thousand troops of the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry (airmobile) division came ashore, continuing the biggest troop landing of the war.

Shastri Says New Delhi Is Satisfied With Military Objectives in Two Areas

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India declared today it had won its military objectives in two sectors of West Pakistan and authoritative sources said Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri was seriously considering a cessation of hostilities.
There was no assurance that Shastri and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, now in New Delhi, would be able to agree on a formula for halting the war, however. Nor was there any indication Pakistan was ready to talk peace.
Thant was reliably reported to have told U.N. workers in New Delhi that despite their differences, India and Pakistan in recent days have shown an interest in stopping the bloodshed that began Sept. 6.
Strong Backing
Thant, who has visited Pakistan, appears to have won strong backing from the big powers, especially the Soviet Union and the United States. Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev today called again for an end to the fighting. The United States is reported ready to cut off massive economic aid to the subcontinent until the fighting ceases.
Shastri met with leaders of his Congress party and ranking members of the opposition in Parliament. Many of them have been demanding a stepped up war against Pakistan.
Informed sources said when it was learned Shastri was considering a cessation of the fighting, opposition leaders demanded that in any agreement India refuse to reopen the Kashmir question and to hold territory it

Pope Opens Final Session at Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today opened the Vatican's final session of the Second Vatican Council, with regard to the matters to be presented to you.
The Pope also announced the establishment of a special synod of bishops which he will convene for consultation and collaboration when he sees fit.
Various Conferences
Pope Paul said the episcopal synod would be composed largely of bishops from the various episcopal conferences around the world.
The pontiff said the special synod, or senate of worldwide bishops, would "be of use in the day-to-day work of the Roman Curia."
The Pope wore robes and the bishop's miter of red. The day was the Roman Catholic feast of the Exalting of the Holy Cross, accounting for the red instead of gold and white.
Pope Paul and the 26 prelates with him entered on foot.
In the basilica were diplomats accredited to the Vatican, more than 50 observers from other Christian churches and more than 30 Roman Catholic priests, nuns and laymen officially named as council observers.
The Pope and his concelebrants stood around a big square altar under the basilica's central bronze canopy to say the Mass. Twenty were cardinals, six were archbishops and bishops. All are members of the council's directorate.
They included Lawrence Cardinal Shehan of Baltimore; Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York; Archbishop John J. Krol of Philadelphia.
The council turned to prayer and penance before getting to work on its final 11 documents. A penitential procession by the Pope and bishops through a half-mile of Rome streets was set for dusk tonight, the day's second religious ceremony.

Vance Speaks for Reorganization

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance said today a proposed reorganization of Army Reserve forces should be put into effect as soon as possible.
In a speech prepared for the Southern Governors Conference, Vance said the plan has been reviewed by Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, and that they recommend it be implemented as soon as possible.
Vance said he and his superior, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara agree wholeheartedly.
The plan to merge many organized Reserve units into the National Guard has been delayed and may be blocked by congressional action.

Scientist Indicted In Murder of Wife

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A Forsyth County grand jury returned a first degree murder indictment Monday against missile engineer Robert E. Porth, 56, in the death of his Milwaukee-born wife.
The indictment did not allege how Mrs. Porth was killed, but said she was slain in Forsyth County. Her body was found on a roadside cliff near Pulaski, Va. Aug. 14, one day after Porth said she left to drive to Milwaukee to visit friends.

Off Green Bay Ramp

Two Women Die as Car Plunges Into Fox

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Two unidentified women drowned today when their car crashed through a five-inch concrete panel on the fourth floor of the Fox River Parking Ramp and plunged into the river.
Fire department divers pulled the bodies of two elderly women from the back seat of the auto, which was upside down in about 10 feet of water.
The roof of the car was buried several inches in the mucky bottom of the river, while the wheels were about three feet below the river's surface.
Ripped Panel
An employee of the H. C. Prange Co., which adjoins the ramp, said one of the women apparently was parking the car and entered the parking stall too fast, ripping the panel loose and crashing into the water.
Another witness, who was entering the store, said she heard a crash and, seconds later, heard a loud splash. The car dropped about 20 feet out into the river from the center of the ramp, between Pine and Cherry streets.
The car was pulled to the surface by fire department personnel and volunteers who lifted it by hand, pulling on a rope attached to it. The bodies were retrieved by a skin diver who said he found the women in the back seat.
Top Smashed
He said he could not open the front doors because the top of the car was smashed in. The diver entered through a rear door as the car was being lifted off the bottom.
The diver, Mike Lane, said he could not feel anyone else in the car as he groped beneath the surface. Other divers were Robert Truckey and Roger King. One of the women had a deep gash on her head.
The mishap occurred about 10:30 a.m. The car was pulled out about 40 minutes later. Gas covered the water surrounding the car, causing a fire hazard.
Spectators Watch
Shoppers and other spectators lined the walls of the ramp bordering on the river, watching the rescue attempts. Three fire rigs responded to the call, along with police units and the U.S. Coast Guard Search and Rescue unit, which aided in recovering the bodies.

Fischer Quints are Two

By GEORGE MOSES
ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — A traveler driving into Aberdeen from the east sees a big billboard that reads:
"Welcome to Aberdeen, home of —"
Not until he gets near the billboard can he see the rest of it: "—Fischer quint's."
A lush field of corn blocks out this reference to Aberdeen's five most famous inhabitants, who reached their second birthday today.
The quint-eclipsing corn is an odd but apt symbol of the kind of adjustment this northeastern South Dakota city of 25,000 has made to the Fischers.
Become Famous
Aberdeen became a famous town the morning that James Andrew, Mary Margaret, Mary Magdalene, Mary Catherine and Mary Ann were born to Andrew J. Fischer, then a $76-a-week shipping clerk, and his wife, Mary Ann. St. Luke's, the red brick hospital that kept the youngsters alive in their first critical days, became the eye of a hurricane of scrambling newsmen.
There were those in Aberdeen, as there would be in any town, who saw fortune along with fame — an eager world beating a lucrative path to the quint's door.
But today, as the quint's turn a healthy, happy and normal-as-possible 2, there is no path, and no door.

Private Party
Further, today's birthday party will be a private one, behind the doors of the 17-room, $100,000 ranch home a mile southwest of Aberdeen which the quint's made possible.
A year ago Aberdeen folks — most of whom have not to this day seen the quint's — might have wished for a public whoop-up. Today Aberdeen is resigned to, adjusted to, or sympathetic to — depending on who is doing the talking — the wall of privacy behind which the Fischers have retreated.
Whatever there may have been of early dreams of easy tourist dollars, lured to Aberdeen by the quint's, have vanished. If the quint's have made even a small bulge in the Aberdeen economy, it is not apparent to the casual visitor.
Not on Display
The four girls and their brother have never been put on public display. Mrs. Fischer occasionally takes them along when she does an errand downtown, but it's a rare sight, and they stay in the car.
A tourist who wants to get as close as he can — and several do — can take a paved highway half a mile south of Aberdeen, and turn west on a gravel road. The two-story, red and cream Fischer home is easy to spot because no South Dakota farmer would build one that big.
Not far off the highway, it is surrounded by wire fencing and bristles with "Private property — No trespassing" signs. If sightseers don't get the point, there are signs on the road which read, "No parking on highway."
Weekend traffic is sometimes

Soviet Missile Shots Near Hawaii May be Warning

Honolulu Headquarters for Pacific Operations, Viet Nam

BY ROBERT S ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Russia is firing intercontinental ballistic missiles at targets within 90 miles of Hawaii's westernmost islands. The missiles, although falling harmlessly into the Pacific Ocean, are privately viewed by President Johnson's chief diplomatic advisers as Soviet warning signals against U.S. escalation of the Viet Nam conflict.

The Joint Chiefs recommend that the big bombers as political for all U.S. military operations in the Pacific, including Viet Nam. It also is the main base for the Navy's Pacific fleet of nine aircraft carriers, two Polaris submarines and more than a hundred surface craft.

Significantly, the Russians are firing their 5,000-mile-range missiles closer to Hawaii than 20 sites in the South Viet Nam were being stepped up.

Little Impact

The controversial air strikes have been limited to South Viet Nam targets, on direct orders believed to have a range of at least 30 miles.

Mobile Rockets

French intelligence sources say the highly publicized bombing missions are being flown mainly from the Haiphong area several 900 to 1,000 miles away. Moscow could be launched by U.S. airfields against industrial targets in North Viet Nam if Hanoi South Viet Nam continues to refuse to negotiate a peaceful settlement or steps is being taken to negotiate a settlement.

While the unannounced Soviet missile firings have jarred some officials of President Johnson's diplomat Haiphong's port or its advisers the Joint Chiefs of Staff regard them as a big in his memorandums to the President, Rusk argues that bombing Haiphong would broaden the war and could cause a major showdown with the Soviet Union. He interprets the Russian missile signals as warning that the use of B-52s in North Viet Nam could touch off a direct U.S.-Soviet confrontation.

In testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in September 1962 Secretary Rusk completely misread Russian signals to the U.S. on its arms shipments to Cuba a month before the missile crisis there.

Defensive Weapons

He told the senators that "the Russians in a series of statements and messages, were sending signals assuring our government that they were delivering only defensive weapons to Cuba."

At the time Rusk was testifying Soviet ships were sneaking medium-range ballistic missiles into Cuba. Although he has since appeared numerous times before the same committee, Rusk has neither volunteered, nor have the senators questioned him on why he was so far off in reading Russian intentions.

Air Force officials want to use the B-52s on low-level attacks against the SAM missile sites to prove that these big bombers are capable of operating against present Soviet missile sites despite their location.

In preparation for such missions B-52 crews based on Guam have begun intensive training in low-level bombing. Whether the President will ever approve such attacks is conjectural.

U.N. to Gain Three Members

Maldives Islands, Gambia, Singapore To Bring Total to 117

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations, which lost a member six months ago, will more than make up for that soon by gaining three new ones.

Gambia, the Maldives Islands and Singapore are expected to be admitted to the organization by the General Assembly when it starts its 20th annual session a week from today. That will boost the membership to 117.

Admitting a new member takes a recommendation from the Security Council and a two-thirds vote in the assembly. The council recommended Gambia last March. It is likely to meet late this week to do the same.

Wars Raging Where People Denied Vote

Elections Were Cancelled in Both Kashmir, Viet Nam

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — In two different places there was talk about letting the people vote on the kind of government they wanted. But that was long ago and it never happened. And now there is war in the two places.

Maybe there would have been these wars anyway, for they had other roots, too, in deep antagonisms and ambitions. And it doesn't make much difference now that the two leaders who said no to the vote of the people are both dead.

Their successors, in India and Viet Nam, have the same attitude. When the Communist-led Vietnamese crushed the French in 1954 an agreement was worked out at Geneva with Britain, France, The Soviet Union, Red China, North Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia taking part.

Provisional Government

The United States didn't sign. It was acting as an onlooker. The agreement divided Viet Nam into North and South, with the Communists getting the northern part. The South Vietnamese were left to set up their own provisional government.

But by 1956 according to the agreement which set down some other conditions also all the people of the two Viet Nams were to be allowed to vote on the kind of single government they wanted for the whole country.

Meanwhile, in 1955 in South Viet Nam, a republic was created with Ngo Dinh Diem president. When the time came for that nation-wide vote in 1956 he said no. His explanation was that he had not signed the Geneva agreement. The United States, which hadn't signed, either, backed him up.

It was hardly his only reason. The Reds might have won the election. The North Vietnamese outnumbered the South Vietnamese only by about 16 million to 15 million.

Red Control

But the Reds had tight control over the North Vietnamese and a lot of sympathizers in South Viet Nam which, besides, was badly split into factions.

In 1958 about two years after the vote was to have taken place the Red guerrillas slowly started their war against South

Viet Nam. Eventually they took over most of the countryside.

By the time Diem was overthrown and killed in 1963 the United States was well on its way to getting up to its neck in the war, as it is now.

India's Prime Minister Nehru, who died last year, had a problem similar to President Diem's India, while Britain held it, was made up mostly of Hindus and Moslems, with the Hindus far outnumbering the Moslems.

When India got independence in 1947 the minority Moslems didn't want to be totally dominated by Hindus. In the fuss that followed, a couple of chunks of India were broken off to become the independent state of Pakistan.

Still Mixup

There's still a mixup. In the Moslem-run Pakistan with a population of about 100 million, about 10 million are Hindus. In India, with 450 million people, about 50 million are Moslems.

But one of the loveliest places in the world, Kashmir, became one of the sorest. There, wedged in between India and Pakistan, with 77 per cent of the people Moslems in a population of 4 million, Kashmir was run by a Hindu maharajah who tried to stay aloof from both India and Pakistan.

But when Moslem tribesmen from Pakistan poured into Kashmir in 1947 and began looting and burning villages, he decided to join India which sent in troops to help him. Pakistan sent in troops to help its tribesmen.

The fighting lasted a year until the United Nations got a ceasefire. When the shooting stopped one-third of Kashmir was on Pakistan's side of the cease-fire line. The rest was on India's side.

Election Suggested

The United Nations suggested that all the people of Kashmir be allowed to vote to decide whether they wanted to join India or Pakistan. Nehru agreed, provided Pakistan pull out its troops first. Pakistan wouldn't withdraw unless the Indians got out.

Then Nehru suggested partitioning Kashmir along the cease-fire line, a move which would let Pakistan have only one-third while India got two-thirds. Pakistan refused, and for an obvious reason.

Knowing that 77 per cent of the people of Kashmir were Moslems and assuming they'd vote to join Moslem Pakistan if given the chance, Pakistan insisted they be allowed to vote. This went on like ping-pong until 1955.

Then Nehru switched and refused to permit a vote at all. The picking and pecking continued and now there's a war again with Pakistan still insisting on a vote and the Indians insisting this is ridiculous, that Kashmir belongs to India.

U. S. to Join Cultural Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to authorize United States participation in the inter-American cultural and trade center near Miami, Fla., has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The measure would authorize an appropriation of $11 million in finance to American exhibit and also up to a million annually for maintenance for four years.

The center is to be known as Interama.

Back Social Security Benefits to be Mailed

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Tomorrow the U.S. Treasury will mail out 17.6 million extra checks, worth $885 million and more than $1,200 this year will weigh more than 50 tons, to get relatively less than others. Social Security beneficiaries did not become eligible for Social Security until after January 1965 or who are earning less than $1,200 this year will weigh more than 50 tons, to get relatively less than others.

Percentage of Benefits

To you, a prosperous working American today, such sums may seem picayune. But for the average Social Security beneficiary the September retroactive payment will amount to as much as 65 per cent of a full month's regular benefits.

Also underlining the vital importance of the retroactive check is the fact that today Social Security amounts to nearly one-third of the total income of elderly Americans. For one in four, it's virtually the only source of income.

There is no doubt that the Social Security retroactive payments and the regular 7 per cent monthly raise will have an immediately stimulating impact on the U. S. economy. Most of the individuals receiving the September payments will spend all of the money within five to ten days after the checks arrive.

Specific Purposes

Many already have earmarked the money for specific purposes, letters to Social Security offices indicate. A 67-year-old Bronx widow decided weeks ago to spend her September check for a pair of orthopedic shoes. An Akron, Ohio, widow intends to spend her check on a clothes and school supplies for her three children. An elderly Philadelphia couple is going to get the house furnace fixed for this winter. A 78-year-old Chicago retiree will spend the whole sum on back grocery bills. No worker who is now receiving $57 a month or less actually will get, has indicated any plans to raise of more than 7 per cent — plus a minimum retroactive than "a steak dinner to celebrate."

Mind you, a full $1.2 billion of extra money is pouring into the hands of people who will spend just about every penny in the checks now going into the mails next 100 days. Then, the continuing 7 per cent across-the-board raise will translate into $107.20 for an aged couple, $416.14 for a young widow with two children, the minimum extra check will be $48.

The maximum retroactive check now going into the mails next 100 days. Then, the continuing 7 per cent across-the-board raise will translate into $107.20 for an aged couple, $416.14 for a young widow with two children, the minimum extra check will be $48.

Average September bonuses This stimulant will help offset the dampening effect of the big $80 for an aged couple, $40 for an aged widow, $112 for a young widow with two children, $56 for a disabled worker, $104 for a disabled worker with a wife and one or more children.

Rights Groups Plan Milwaukee School Boycott During Fall

MILWAUKEE AP—A week-long pupil boycott of Milwaukee public schools is planned early this fall by civil rights groups as a protest against alleged de facto segregation.

Assemblyman Lloyd A. Barbee, D-Milwaukee, only Negro member of the Wisconsin Legislature, said an announcement of the starting date would be made later. Barbee is chairman of the Milwaukee United School Integration Committee, the sponsoring organization. Last May about 11,500 pupils participated in a one-day boycott of schools in Negro areas.

The committee is protesting the policy under which pupils of overcrowded schools are bused to schools outside the city's inner core area and kept in Negro areas.

Top Lumber Firm Failed in Try to Liquidate

By JIM ADAMS

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — From a company that had decided to give up a decade ago, Idaho's Boise Cascade Corp. has grown into one of America's top three lumber producers — and it is still growing.

In 1956 Boise Cascade sold lumber and building materials — $35 million worth. Now it turns trees into everything from safety paper for checkbooks to factory — built homes. Sales were over $271 million last year.

Robert V. Hansberger, the corporation's 44-year-old president, expects sales to top $400 million this year.

It all started after World War II when lumber companies that could afford it began turning wood scraps into pulp for paper.

Liquidate by '48 The new pulp sideline brought high profits and the price of lumber went down. Small companies like the Boise Payette Lumber Co. that could not afford $10 million pulp mills decided to get out.

"Liquidate by '48" became Boise Payette's motto and when no one would buy — for the same reason the company wanted to sell — that motto became "all done by '51."

By 1956 there had been no take-overs. That was when Boise Payette hired Hansberger — then the 35-year-old executive vice president of an Oregon pulp and paper firm — as its president.

He lined up a merger with the Cascade Lumber Co. of Yakima, Wash., to start a combine that could afford to build a pulp mill at Wallula, Wash. The merged company became Boise Cascade.

By 1958, Boise Cascade had established a cardboard shipping container plant at Burley, Idaho, the nation's center for frozen potato products, and was more than big enough to compete.

Compounding Gains

By that time, said Hansberger, "we had had an opportunity to see what growth we could accomplish." Boise Cascade has been compounding its gains ever since.

Its 18 primary wood plants produce lumber, plywood and a line of building materials including laminated beams. Ten pulp and paper plants, including two in Guatemala and one in the Philippines, produce fine paper, kraft linerboard and newsprint.

Paper converting plants across the country make envelopes, bags, stationery and related paper products.

The new Kingsberry Homes division manufactures factory-built homes on the East Coast and in Iowa. It made and sold 4,500 units last year.

Diversity of products and accompanying growth, said Hansberger, achieved the corporation's purpose: to get maximum value from the raw material — Today, obtaining maximum value is a sophisticated business using computers. They analyze logs and markets for lumber, plywood and pulp products to determine which logs will be used in which markets to get the maximum return.

Hansberger said he does not expect the corporation's growth to level off because the opportunities for new products are so great.

Ruddy-Faced Marine Officer Wanted Action

Lt. Col. Joseph Muir Top Ranking Soldier To Die in Viet Nam

By EDDIE ADAMS
DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP) — When the U.S. Marines began their patrols against the Viet Cong last April you usually found a ruddy-faced officer with close-cropped hair in the lead platoon. Lt. Col. Joseph Muir, 37, a native of Oak Hill, W.Va., was operations officer for the 9th Marine Expeditionary Brigade for the first couple of months. He wanted to see for himself the problems confronting the Marines in the new type of guerrilla warfare being waged. Later he was named commander of a battalion. "You can find me where the action is," Muir used to say. The 3rd battalion of the 9th Marine Regiment which Muir took over had been held in reserve aboard the USS Prince during a Marine operation on the Cape Ratanan peninsula. The operation ended Friday and the battalion was moved 74 miles from Chu Lai to act as a blocking force for a South Vietnamese Army operation 10 miles south of the Da Nang Air Base. Stepped on Mine Muir stepped on a Viet Cong mine while moving up his command post. He was the highest ranking Marine Corps officer to die in Viet Nam so far. M. Sgt. Edward Wargo of Coal Dale, Pa., was with Muir when he was hit. "We were going to displace the command post just before it was sun up," said Wargo. "We were in a wedge formation. First, the colonel, who was flanked by his two radio operators. I was behind him. We started ahead of the rest of the command post group, which was to follow. Then the colonel stepped on a mine."

Legion Fall Parley Set

District Posts to Meet in Crivitz for Sunday Conference

American Legion Ninth District Commander Martin T. Jansen of Little Chute has announced that the district fall conference for the American Legion posts of northeastern Wisconsin will be held at the Crivitz High School Sunday. Crivitz American Legion Post No. 413 will be host. Registration will be Sunday morning at the American Legion Clubhouse, Crivitz High School and the town hall. Training schools will be held Sunday. Local Legionnaires participating will be Lloyd J. Borken, Appleton, commander's school; Edward J. Arndt, Appleton, adjutant school; Steve Andrejeski, Kimberly, Don Meulemans, Wrightstown, sergeant-at-arms school; Harold Van Dyke, Neenah, historian school. The conference will be addressed by Mrs. Paul Doerfler, Kimberly, who is the ninth year, said last night that he will ask for the election of officers as a first order of business at the first session. "And I don't anticipate that I will be elected," he added. The superintendent did not say that he would refuse re-election. He evidently meant to convey the idea that one of the governor's recent appointees would be given the presiding officer's gavel. Rothwell guessed that the next order of work for the committee would be the designation of a sub-committee to review the problem of staff recruitment and to set up a salary schedule calculated to interest applicants.

Education Unit's 1st Task Is Hiring Staff

Panel Told to Select Men That Can't be Accused of Favoritism

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MADISON — The first important task of the newly reorganized Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, master planning agency for the state-supported program of education beyond the high school, will be the hiring of a new administrative and research staff. Gov. Warren P. Knowles, in signing the bill reorganizing the committee and putting it under the control of a majority of public members, made it clear that he wants the committee to hire staff advisors and researchers who cannot be called biased in favor of any element of the existing educational program. The evident wish of the governor is the scuttling of the prevailing system of recruiting staff advisors and assistants from the state university system, the University of Wisconsin, and the State Department of Vocational and Adult Education, in equal proportions. Cooperation Expected Because Knowles made his wishes known — and apparently reflected the intent of the legislature as well — it is expected that his appointees will honor them when they take their seats at the first meeting of the reorganized group here Sept. 22. Angus Rothwell, state superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the Coordinating Committee during the last year, said last night that he will ask for the election of officers as a first order of business at the first session. "And I don't anticipate that I will be elected," he added. The superintendent did not say that he would refuse re-election. He evidently meant to convey the idea that one of the governor's recent appointees would be given the presiding officer's gavel. Rothwell guessed that the next order of work for the committee would be the designation of a sub-committee to review the problem of staff recruitment and to set up a salary schedule calculated to interest applicants.

Cool, Cloudy Weather in Most of North

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain dampened scattered sections in the East, South and Northwest today, with cool, cloudy weather across most of the northern tier of states. Severe thunderstorms, with hail, strong winds and rain, swept areas in northeastern Kansas and northwestern Missouri Monday night. The Weather Bureau reported hailstones grapefruit-size in some areas. Strong winds unroofed some homes, toppled trees and disrupted power and telephone service. Heavy hail pelted Liberty, northeast of Kansas City. Winds were clocked at 50 m.p.h. Four inches of rain doused Versailles, Mo., in a 45-minute period. Heavy rain splashed nearby Eldon and there was some flash flooding in the area. Showers and light rain sprinkled scattered areas in the Northeast and the middle and south Atlantic states. Light rain also was reported in areas from Washington to Montana. Mostly clear and warm weather prevailed in much of the Southland and in the Southwest. Temperatures reached 100 degrees Monday in parts of Oklahoma and Texas, with higher readings in the Southwest desert region. The day's top mark was 107 at Blythe and Palm Springs, Calif. Early morning temperatures ranged from 34 at Hibbing, Minn., to 89 at Blythe.

Proxmire Dairy Bill

Senate Votes for Top-Price Milk Marketing Plan in Farm Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted 57-27 Monday to set up a new two-price program for producers in city milk marketing areas as it moved the omnibus farm bill toward anticipated passage today. The new dairy plan, championed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., would abolish the single-price blend system now in effect. The milk change is also in the House — passed farm bill and the Johnson administration has indicated acceptance of it. At present, the producer receives a single blend price, taking into account the proportion of production going into higher-priced fluid consumption and the proportion going into lower-priced manufactured use. Higher Price The Proxmire plan would allow producers in a marketing system to set up a program under which each dairyman would get an allotment for his share of sales devoted to fluid consumption. The dairyman would receive the benefits of the higher price for it paid by consumers. On the proportion of milk used for making cheese, ice cream and similar products, the dairyman would receive a lower price. Proxmire contended the present blend price system encourages overproduction since a dairyman receives a higher-than-market-price return on his excess milk used in manufacturing. 3

Governor Appoints Two From Valley on Library Council

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Two Fox River Valley area residents will have leading roles in the future development of public library service in Wisconsin. Gov. Warren Knowles Monday announced the appointment of librarians through act of the Legislature this year. Among the proposals already outlined by Supt. Angus Rothwell of the department is the enlargement of services and aids for school libraries, as a result of a substantial increase in federal aids available. Specific statutory duties of the advisory council include consulting with the governor and the superintendent on general policies involving library development, and the coordination of public and school library services with the facilities of the state operated libraries.

No more house heating work for Daddy

My Daddy is in a real good mood these days 'cause our new gas furnace is all installed and ready for winter. When it gets cold, all Daddy has to do is set the thermostat. This year, he'll have plenty of time to help Tommy and me make snowmen, teach us how to build igloos and stuff like that. Tommy is my little brother. We both think we're going to like automatic gas heat, too.

Sacrifice Trump Trick To Halt Ruffs

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If you open the bidding with one of a suit and your partner responds in one of a higher suit, his response is forcing for one round. Bridge players sometimes simplify this principle by saying "a one-over-one-bid is forcing," but this does not apply to all one-over-one bids.

In the hand shown today, taken from the recent national pair championship, North's response of one heart was forcing for one round. South's rebid of

Girl Friend's Moustache Is Reason for Disenchantment

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a law student at the university here and am very much interested in a charming and brilliant young sociology major. This girl has everything, including something she doesn't need a moustache.

For the life of me I can't understand how an attractive well-groomed young woman can discard the king of clubs on the king of hearts, ruffed a heart, and led the last diamond. West could not shut out dummy's ten of spades, and South made an overtrick.

The result was not earthshaking, one overtrick at a one-bid, but it is of such stuff that tournament championships are made.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one club, you bid one heart, and partner now bids one spade. It is up to you again, holding S 3 H A J 9 5 4, D Q 9 5 4, C A 8 3. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. This gives partner a chance to show heart support if he can. If he bids two notrump, you will raise to three.

Prompt Diagnosis Needed to Prevent Rheumatic Fever

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Rheumatic fever can often be prevented, says the American Heart Association, if parents are on the alert for the earliest symptoms which can lead to the serious disease. If your child complains of a sudden sore throat that hurts mostly when he swallows; runs a fever over 101 degrees; has a headache; is nauseated — call your doctor at once. The youngster may have a strep throat, and strep infections can lead to rheumatic fever.

Unlike other childhood diseases, rheumatic fever can strike more than once, and can do serious injury to the heart. Doctors can knock out strep infections fairly easily with penicillin or sulfa drugs, but one spade was not forcing, he could have jumped to two spades if his hand were good enough. North could safely pass the rebid of one spade (especially since he had a very doubtful response to one club).

Touch of Thyme

Fish chowder benefits from the addition of thyme. Early treatment is essential. If a child is exposed to scarlet fever, his doctor should be alerted at once. Preventive treatment can ward off complications such as rheumatic fever.

West began a good defense by leading the queen of spades, but didn't have the courage to continue the defense. South won the first trick with the king of spades and led the queen of hearts to force out the ace.

East returned a low club, which rode to dummy's ten, and declarer ducked a diamond to West's jack. Now West's best defense is to return the jack of spades. This gives up one trump trick but prevents two ruffs.

Leads Club
West weakly shifted back to clubs, and East took the ace and led a third club for West to ruff. There was still time for the jack of trumps, but West returned the king of diamonds to South's ace.

Now South ruffed a diamond with the eight of trumps.

Lyle and I had always gotten along fine until four months ago when his company put table tennis in the cafeteria. We haven't had dinner on time since Lyle gets off work at 4:30. He used to be home no later than 5. Now if he comes home by 7 I am surprised. There's no point in asking him to be more considerate of me and the children. He says a man has to have an outlet for his energies and I should consider myself lucky he isn't doing other things.

Maybe he is right, but it does seem a bit one-sided. Any help you can offer will be greatly appreciated. — Second Fiddle to a Little White Ball ally in groups ranging between 75 and 150. The tours were started because Mrs. Burns believes the mansion belongs to the people of the state and they should have a chance to look at it.

More importantly, she believes it has great historical significance.

"This was once the home of a queen," she tells the children. "We're the only state that once was a kingdom."

But her most significant role is greeting the heavy traffic of international dignitaries and royalty that is channeled to Washington Place for the state's official greeting.

"Hawaii is unique," Mrs. Burns says. "In most states, such entertaining is on a local level."

"The mayors of large cities in mainland states carry the brunt of official hospitality, since the state capitals are usually inland, such as in New York and California. It does not always evolve on the governor, as it does here."

Many Reasons
People who voted for Mrs. Burns as Hawaii's "Most Admired Woman" cited her courage and spirit, her participation in community activities, and helping her husband while forced to remain in a wheelchair.

One woman said, "She's the most gracious first lady any state could have."

Another said, "You have to admire her. How many women could raise children and make a home for a husband while having to live in that wheelchair?"

A friend says of her, "It's just a delight to work with her. She is such an appealing, sweet person. You just want to make her happy."

Young Scot Builds Carnaby Street Empire in Men's Fashion

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A once tatty London side street has become the Saville Row of the switched-on people, a mercantile mecca for the wearers of ultramodern clothes.

Carnaby Street, only 125 yards long, is for those who want to be a couple of buttons, a slashed sleeve, or an extra jacket-vent ahead of the crowd. Located just off Regent Street, it is a village all by itself in the heart of London.

Beat music pours from the shops, and long-haired young men and women stand around chatting and laughing.

A Real 'Village'

"It really is a village," says the proprietor of a restaurant called Cranks, "but what a village."

Carnaby Street is a narrow avenue of colorfully fronted shops, most of them selling the kookiest of clothes to males and females. Some of the haberdashery is so far out that it resembles dream gear from another planet.

The Beatles, the Rolling Stones, Herman's Hermits, the Pretty Things, the Animals and other British pop music groups buy clothes in the street. Some rather well-known other people do too. These include Lord Snowdon, the husband of Princess Margaret; actor Peter Sellers, and the duke of Bedford.

Carnaby's King

The king of Carnaby Street is 29-year-old John Stephen. In addition to owning several shops in the little street, he has 22 boutiques in outer London plus two factories.

Stephen's success story is almost as exciting as the Beatles. Five years ago he left Glasgow with $36.40 in his pocket and a throbbing lump of ambition in his heart. He headed for London on a bus. He had no job, no friends, and no contacts. Today he's a millionaire.

In addition to his kookie clothes empire, he owns commercial property, a real estate agency, a driving school and an auto rental company with a fleet of Jaguars.

First Job

"One of my first jobs was in a man's boutique selling 'with it' continental clothes," he said. "Young men want to wear these clothes. They had the money to buy them, but no one seemed to want to make the clothes for them. That's when I stepped in, and it was a mighty tiny step too."

He worked by day in the clothing store and labored as a waiter in coffee bars by night until he had $840 in the bank.

"I took a small room in Soho," he says. "bought some fabrics I had faith in, hired a sewing machine, got a machinist, designed some clothes and, well — I was away."

'Never Looked Back'

Stephen has never looked back.

Carnaby Street, of course, has other shops. There is Vince's for one. While Marlene Dietrich buys slacks from Stephen, Cilla Black, the British pop singer and Sean Connery of the James Bond movies buy things from Vince.

Around the corner again, hard by on Marlborough Court is Toni Frith's Button Shop. She carries a stock of over 20,000 buttons. They sell from two pennies to $56 each.

Antique Buttons

With customers from all over the world, she also carries a line of antique buttons and some of these can cost $518 per set.

Looking Like a Model for his own fashions, John Stephen stands outside one of several shops he owns in tiny Carnaby Street, center for kookie fashions. Mr. Stephen, 29, is king of Carnaby Street. He also has 22 boutiques in outer London, and two factories. He has built his fashion empire and become a millionaire in the five years since he arrived from Glasgow with $36.40 and neither job nor friends. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

While the big money-makers of the beat groups shop on Carnaby Street, the bulk of the buyers are in the age group from 16 to 35. Today in Britain these young people have jobs and money to spend on clothes.

One of London's biggest clothiers recently sounded off on the sort of clothes the street sells. At a news conference, Leslie Powe of Hector Powe Ltd., founded over a half century ago, said:

"Ridiculous Garments" "We now have a bevy of designers who have set themselves up as stylists of men's clothes. They produce a collection of ridiculous garments which no self-respecting man would be seen dead in."

The tycoon was promptly

Old Organs Used Water, Air Pressure

Do you know that the organ is actually older than Christianity?

The first organ was devised in 250 B.C. and combined water, a trumpet and air pressure to make "a powerful sound." More than 1,000 years later, an organ was built that had 400 pipes and 26 bellows, and needed 70 men to operate it and two organists to play it.

Eventually, other mechanical devices were added and soon the organ was known as the King of Instruments. But, it was so large and magnificent only the very rich could own it.

In 1935, the first electric organ was built, and, fittingly, Henry Ford, another great American inventor, was the first man to own an organ.

answered by Taylor and Cutter, the arbiter of male style in Britain. In a lead editorial the magazine said:

"The middle-aged man must remember that there is no point in disliking teen-age fashions, because they are not designed to please him anyway."

"What matters is that young people today are wearing clothes and reacting to clothes in a way that the conservative classes of the 1920s and 1930s never could."

"Financial independence allows them to indulge themselves to the point where they can now go to their own tailors and designers rather than obediently attend tailors nominated by parents who used to pay."

And, a great many go to Carnaby Street.

Hawaii's First Lady Presides Graciously From Wheel Chair

BY JAMES LAGIER

HONOLULU (AP) — The wife of Hawaii's governor is a fragile, gentle woman who runs a 24-room mansion, is hostess to a continuous stream of important visitors, and fills the obligations that are hers as the state's first lady—all from a wheelchair.

Stricken by polio 30 years ago and unable to walk since then, Beatrice Burns has raised three children, campaigned side by side with her husband, and now presides with self-assurance over historic Washington Place, home of Hawaii's governors in downtown Honolulu.

Given Title

She's so popular with islanders that she was recently elected Hawaii's "Most Admired Woman" in a newspaper poll, edging out Rep. Patsy Takemoto Mink, the first woman of Japanese-American ancestry to win a seat in the U.S. Congress.

Mrs. Burns was stricken with polio four years after her marriage. She was pregnant and lost the child.

At first she was unable to move either her arms or legs. Later, she got back partial use of her arms.

Mrs. Burns has been able to lead a normal life, she says, because of her family. "They treat me as a human being rather than as a handicapped person. There is never any chance of self-pity when they are around. When I do get a little soupy, they kid me out of it."

Mrs. Burns, the former Beatrice Majors Van Vleet, was born in Sumpter, a mining town in Oregon, and spent her youth in more than a dozen cities in the West, from Los Angeles to Nevada. Her parents were school teachers and farmers. They had migrated from the Midwest where her great-uncle, Thomas J. Majors, was a lieutenant governor of Nebraska from 1891 to 1895.

Coming to Hawaii in 1930 as an Army nurse, she met her husband-to-be, John, then a student at the University of Hawaii, at Schofield Barracks.

Despite her handicap, she raised her young children, John, Jr., and Mary Beth, who were infants at the time she was stricken. John is now a speechwriter in the Treasury Department in Washington, and Mary Beth is a housewife in Honolulu.

The Burns' youngest son, James, 27, was born after she had the polio attack. He is an attorney in Honolulu.

"I did all my own cooking and sewing. I was the main dishwasher. I was not too good at cleaning the house but Beth took care of that," she says.

Mrs. Burns played a major role in her husband's long political career, frequently accompanying him on speaking trips, but more frequently as "the schedule-keeper and the telephone answerer."

Find Other Ways

For Mrs. Burns, disability isn't necessarily a handicap. "You can always compensate," she says. "I do whatever I can reach. You can sweep a floor moving backwards, trailing the broom behind you."

She no longer has to sweep floors. She has a staff of five, who take care of household chores.

There is still the garden however. "I slither around in the garden daily, and if you don't mind losing a little dignity, you can accomplish a lot."

It is at Washington Place, the 119-year-old mansion where Queen Liliuokalani lived after the Hawaiian monarchy was overthrown, that Mrs. Burns keeps busiest in her role as the wife of Hawaii's governor.

Shows Home

Twice a week, she takes school children or other groups on guided tours of the mansion.

Officials Feel Frustrated With Dollar Drain

Parents' World

Boy Taught to Depend on Mother Overlearned Lesson

By DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: My 3-year-old son clings to me a lot. If he wants me to play with him and I don't start immediately he gets very upset, and whines and twists his little body around. He doesn't go outside to play by himself. If I take him out and start him playing, then leave and come inside, he comes in too.

I find myself screaming at him a lot during the day because he upsets me and I don't know what to do with him.

Dr. Jones

When I ask him to do something, I count to 3. And if he hasn't started on it, I spank him. It has reached the point where he screams at me after I spank him.

He is and has always been a very active child. He's done most everything early according to the books I've read — cutting teeth, walking, coordinating his hands, talking. He learned all of his ABC's, both small and capital letters, when he was 17-months-old, and can read words. This was without any effort on my part.

He would bring an alphabet block and hold it up to me until I told him the letter, then he would run and get another one. I have encouraged him to read letters from books and magazines and now I'm teaching him to read. I'm trying to make a game of it and he seems to enjoy it and asks me to "read words."

"I'm telling you this so you'll know that the reason he clings to me is not that he isn't intelligent enough to occupy himself and so you'll know that I do discipline him. Do you think his clinging to me can be caused by his not having any friends to play with? Would nursery school help? How can I send him to nursery school if he won't leave me? Mrs. B. E.

Dear Mrs. B. E.: His clinging to you is caused by the way you have been teaching him — every day of his life — to cling to you. To change his behavior, you must change your. Losing your temper isn't "disciplining because some of the profits return to this country.

Curb Bank Loans

A voluntary program to curb bank loans was highly successful but, again, there may be an adverse "feedback." Shutting off this flow of capital may hamper U.S. exports if foreigners do not have enough cash or credit for purchases.

Finally, there is the theory that eliminating the deficit will set up a Counter problem: A shortage of international money, and, consequently, a worldwide recession.

Fowler is trying to set up an international conference to discuss this potential hazard and perhaps to find a way to make the world less dependent on the dollar.

Minnesota Tests Road Safety Device

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Highway Department is testing strips of rough-surfaced concrete, placed just ahead of rural stop signs, which are designed to produce an audible rumble in cars and make drivers sit up and take notice of traffic signs. The department says the first tests show "definite value" in the idea.

Nelson to Ask Funds to Restore Resources

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said Sunday he will propose on the Senate floor a $15 to $100 billion (b) federal program of grants and tax rebates to industries and cities to assist in restoration of the nation's natural resources.

Nelson, in Lima to speak at a Democratic rally, said he feels this is more important than any other domestic issue facing the nation. He said the program he proposes amounts to "only one of two years' defense budget."

The senator claimed that America in 150 years has done more desecration to water, soil, forests, minerals, air and scenic beauty than "any other nation in the history of the world."

"We have polluted every major river basin," he said, and predicted that "at the rate we're going in 25 years the Great Lakes will be destroyed."

He said he hopes to ask Congress within 30 days to consider the program.

Innocent Babies Suffer

Well-Fed Soldiers Fight As Phoen Thi Starves

By PAUL DEAN

CHU LAI, South Viet Nam (AP) — The military doesn't want it to happen, but the innocent die daily in this cruel and puzzling war.

Phoen Thi Que was an innocent. She was born seven months ago in Loc Tu village, the fifth child of farmer Phan Qua and his brown-eyed wife.

While Phan Qua and his wife worked their rice paddy, bare feet and knees squishing in stinking gray mud, little Phoen Thi stayed in the village with her brothers and sisters. They carried her easily around on their hips, setting her down so she could gurgle at the games they played. She was gently spanked a dozen times for reaching out for the round stones the youngsters used in their games of marbles.

Survived Diseases Phoen Thi survived the diseases that take the lives of too many Vietnamese children. She grew sturdy little legs, was crawling enough to become a happy nuisance and was beginning to recognize the simple words her parents repeated to her.

And then the Viet Cong came to Loc Tu. The village, part of the Binh Ky complex, became a company headquarters for the VC's elite 1st Regiment.

The village schoolteacher was bayoneted in both breasts, executed because she had taught. Two of her students had their legs riddled by bullets because they had listened and refused to join the Viet Cong.

For long weeks there were no more marble games for Phoen Thi to watch.

Kept in Hut Instead she was kept inside her parents' thatch and mud home while the Viet Cong left on their endless reconnaissance and combat patrols against U.S. Marines stationed at Chu Lai, 15 miles north of the village.

But the Marines received word of the 1st Regiment's location and began attacks of their own.

With the initial barrage, the first of many days of shelling to soften up the area for ground troops, Phan Qua and his wife were separated and sent to different shelters.

Phoen Thi went with her father and two of her sisters. But there was no food or water in the sandy hole in the ground that was to be their home for six days.

For every hour of that time, Phan Qua held his daughter to his thin chest, trying all the while to quiet her baby whimpering at the noise of attack and the pains of an empty stomach.

Finally the earth no longer shook. There were no more rifle shots.

Phan Qua climbed back into the daylight. U.S. Marines were sweeping through the village and had routed the Viet Cong.

The farmer begged a canteen from a Marine's belt. He held it to little Phoen Thi's gray lips. The water just spilled. He tried again.

"Dammit, man," shouted a Marine, trying desperately to appear tough. "Can't you see the kid's dead?"

Then Phan Qua saw it. While well-fed soldiers had been killing each other with bullets, Phoen Thi had starved to death.

The Marines wrapped the baby in rough green canvas and hacked out a tiny grave with their entrenching tools.

Conquering Parts Of Problem Opens Way in New Areas

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. balance of payments problem has been compared to a balloon — you mash it in one place and it pushes out somewhere else.

This description by Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor illustrates the frustration some government officials feel in grappling with the dollar drain.

Twice within a two-year period government officials conquered segments of the problem only to have trouble appear in another sector.

Running Deficits

The United States has been running a deficit because government outlays for military operations overseas and foreign aid, and private expenditures abroad for imports, investments, loans, and tourism are greater than the receipts from foreigners.

The problem stems in part from the great wealth and a high standard of living in this country. Our tourists have more to spend; our bankers have more to lend.

Sometimes actions to correct the payments imbalance run counter to national policy — overseas military operations, for instance — and they are usually ruled out.

Here is a sampling of some solutions which have been suggested:

Sample Solutions

How about shutting off foreign aid? This would keep several hundred million dollars at home but it would make only a dent in the payments deficit, which ran $3.1 billion last year.

Officials say that 80 per cent of foreign aid is in the form of U.S. goods and therefore does not represent a drain on the dollar. They say this figure will be increased to 90 per cent.

How about bringing some troops home from Europe? In the case of West Germany, where many of the U.S. forces are headquartered, there would be no saving since the government there has agreed to match dollars spent with purchases of military goods in this country.

However, moving troops out of some other countries — were it militarily feasible — would have an effect on the payments situation.

Attract Capital

Some bankers and economists contend that raising U.S. interest rates would attract more capital to the United States. Administration officials argue that this would put a damper on domestic economic growth.

And Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler says it would not produce the desired result because Europeans would raise their rates still higher.

Early this year, a tax on foreign travel of $100 per trip was considered but finally rejected as an unpopular direct control.

Controls on direct business investment were rejected in favor of a voluntary program. The approximately $70 billion worth of U.S. investments abroad eventually will be a plus factor.

Union, Firm Report Conflict On Negotiations

Labor Leaders at Oshkosh Plant Deny Receiving Request

OSHKOSH — Union officials this morning said they had not received any request for a meeting with management on Wednesday although a management spokesman Monday said the striking Local No. 1108 of the United Auto Workers and The Leach Co. management would meet Wednesday to discuss the strike.

Bernard Clavette, president of the UAW local which went on strike last Wednesday, said neither he nor the union's international officials, had received a request for a meeting. The union's president said the union would meet with the company at any time but that the meeting should be on neutral grounds.

The company's law firm announced Monday a meeting had been called between management and union representatives for 10 a.m. Wednesday at The Leach Co. plant office.

Clavette said he counted 31 non-striking production workers reporting for work this morning and stated there were about 100 pickets on the picket line at the plant driveway entrance. He said the pickets are taking turns at being at the plant gate when the non-striking employees come to work and when they leave the plant, rather than have all the strikers at the gate at one time.

Police at Plant

Oshkosh and Winnebago County police were joined by Neenah and Menasha police Monday afternoon as the non-striking employees left the plant. About 70 policemen were at the scene in order to prevent any disorders such as the one which erupted in the morning when the non-striking employees came to work.

There were no incidents Monday afternoon nor any early this morning when the non-striking employees came to work.

Police formed a path for the employees to enter the plant on both occasions.

One union picket said that those non-striking employees who were reporting for work were those who were on a regular pay basis while the others are on a piece-work basis. This picket said that one of the issues involved was the pay scale for those on piece-work. He said he stood to lose 90 cents an hour through the new incentive scale suggested by the company.

Decision to Add 5 Patrolmen Postponed by County Board

Supervisors Vote to Wait for Report on Economic Situation

A decision on whether to add five patrolmen to the Outagamie County Traffic Patrol and expand the traffic and law enforcement coverage to 24 hours a day was postponed at the September meeting of the county board this morning when supervisors voted to hold over the decision until October, when a report will be considered on the economic status of proposed new squad vehicles.

The motion to expand the patrol by five men was entered by John Schreier, chairman of the Courts, Justice and Enforcement Committee.

The main opposition to the proposed resolution was voiced by Supv. Mark Catlin (App. 7th), who felt the board would be getting "the cart before the horse" if it approved the expanded traffic patrol and law enforcement staff before it decided on where money would come from to help defray the cost of the expansion.

$24,000 Extra in Salaries

The postponed additions would cost the county $24,000 in salaries for the new men, with the total cost of equipment and salaries running to around $40,000. Catlin's opposition was that percentage of the county's total traffic and law enforcement budget — 20 to 25 per cent — compared with the effect the addition would have.

Sgt. Lowell Veitch of the county traffic department previously had said that only 2 per cent of the county's accidents occur in the hours which would be covered under the expanded patrol — 3 to 6 a.m.

Sgt. Veitch added that "you represented too high a percentage of the county's total traffic and law enforcement budget — 20 to 25 per cent — compared with the effect the addition would have."

Five Hurt in 3-Car Crash

Auto Goes Through Stop Sign North Of Stephenville

Five persons were hospitalized in Appleton following a three-car accident at 7.15 a.m. today at State 76 and County Trunk S, just north of Stephenville.

Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital was Henry Emmers, 77, 2000 E. John St., Appleton, who received a lacerated left hand and possible internal injuries.

Taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital were Mary Diermeier, 61, route 2, Shioclon, with a lacerated right leg; Florence Benile, 42, route 1, Hortonville, with a fractured right ankle and bruises; Joanne Kemke, 20, route 2, Shioclon, with a scalp laceration and bruises; and Ruth B. Peters, 56, route 2, Black Creek, with a bruised knee and elbow and neck injuries.

Cline and Hanson Ambulance of New London transported some of the injured.

Emmers went through a stop sign as he was traveling east on County Trunk S, according to Outagamie County traffic police. He struck the Peters car which was southbound on State 76, and the Peters car struck the left front fender of a northbound auto driven by Carl Van Straten, 27, route 1, Shioclon.

All of the injured except Emmers were in the Peters car, police said.

Estimated damage to the Emmers car was $1,000, the Peters car $500 and the Van Straten vehicle, $50.

Morning Voter Turnout Heavy for Referendum

2,149 Cast Ballots by Noon; 22,250 Eligible to Decide on Proposal for Appointive Posts

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton residents paid no attention to overcast skies and cool weather today as 2,149 went to the polls and cast votes before noon in the special referendum election.

There were 22,043 residents and 207 servicemen registered to vote on the four referendum questions which will decide whether or not the offices of city clerk, part-time attorney, treasurer and assessor will become appointive.

Supporters of the "yes" vote were encouraged by the forenoon turnout which exceeded by 692 votes the noon total in the April election when aldermen and supervisors were elected in half the city's 20 wards.

Express Confidence

Promoters of the "no" vote — the Committee for Election by Voters of Appleton Officials, clerk and attorney and other volunteer workers — have been confident of victory.

The Appleton League of Women Voters, Appleton Taxpayers Association and Coordinating Committee for Good Government mounted a whirlwind campaign in the past two weeks urging a "yes" vote.

Voters have four separate questions to vote on, one for each position to become appointive under terms of the charter ordinances approved earlier in the year by the common council.

Not to be discounted is the possibility that residents may do some vote-splitting which could result in some offices remaining elective and others being changed to appointive.

The polls will be open until 8 p.m. today, with the outcome of the city-wide referendum expected within a half hour after that.

The campaign trail became crowded in the past few days and produced political fireworks with these developments:

Late Developments

—A claim by a former one-term alderman that the common council held an illegal session when adopting the charter ordinances was refuted by the official proceedings.

—A former city attorney urged a "yes" vote so that the offices become appointive.

—An Appleton youth, active in the "no" vote camp continued his anti-mayor campaign and claimed to be circulating petitions.

—Two prominent Appleton attorneys squared off in a battle of words — one for a "no" vote and the other a "yes" vote — in people's forum statements.

—Local union representatives said Appleton labor had not taken an official position on the referendum questions and declared alderman, a union official at one of the mills, was not representing labor when Turn to Page 3, Col. 4

Strike Continues to Cripple Fox Cities Public Works Jobs

Construction Suppliers, Teamsters Dispute Hitting Area Quarries

The strike of the Teamsters continued but contractors are handicapped by lack of supplies.

The committee, with Ald. Fred Ziemann (6th) dissenting, indicated the public works department should get its small plant in operation as soon as possible and obtain gravel chips from one of the quarries not affected by the strike.

Appleton has been getting blacktop supplies from Badger Highways at Menasha but Monday when city trucks went there, according to Bues, vehicles were parked in front of the entrance. He presumed they belonged to pickets, Bues told the committee.

Pass Through

Last Friday, after city trucks had been unsuccessful in two previous attempts to get material from Badger Highways, Bues accompanied two trucks and pickets admitted them through the line.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), committee chairman, said he felt the municipal trucks and employees should not be crossing the picket lines if there was another alternative such as the city starting up its own blacktop plant again.

Pointer cautioned that the city could "get caught in the middle of the dispute," pointing out that drivers and several other employees in the public works department belong to the Teamsters union striking the contractors.

However, it was emphasized the Teamsters have not struck the city.

Recalls NFO Strike

"I would sure hate to see some trouble start by ordering municipal trucks and employees to cross the lines," Pointer said, "it isn't worth the risk of having someone run down with a truck and being killed." He recalled that during the NFO holding action at Bonduel last year a man on the picket line was killed.

Bues said there was a problem because the municipal employees have a guaranteed work year, but if they did not get the supplies they would have no work to do.

Neither person was hospitalized.

The men were passengers in a car driven by Lester L. Monty, 54, route 1, Bear Creek. The car received front end damage when it was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Hazel J. Zuehl, 42, 1701 Oakridge Ave., Kaukauna. The Zuehl car had major damage to the left side, according to the Outagamie County traffic officers.

Building Permit Issued For Office Complex; Cost Set at $25,000

The first phase of a proposed office building complex has been started at 536 N. Richmond St.

Otto Bytof, Appleton realtor, obtained a permit for the 42 by 30 foot office building estimated to cost about $25,000.

With four rooms and 2,520 square feet of floor space, the building will be constructed in a manner to permit contemplated future expansion, Bytof said today.

Two older buildings were razed recently to make way for the development.

Kimberly Schools Form Advisory Unit

Board Establishes 16-Member Panel to Research Problems

KIMBERLY — A 16-member committee has been established by the board of education to conduct research and act in an advisory capacity to the board on a variety of educational matters.

The committee will investigate ways to better utilize existing school buildings, such as year-around school, longer school days, closed campus, night use of buildings and recreation facilities.

The committee will also study increased school enrollments, projected building programs, future plans of the district's private schools and industrial committee plans for an increased tax base. The committee will also study a merit pay plan for teachers.

General school problems to be aired include curriculum, scheduling, extra curricular activities, religious instruction, shared time, state laws regarding education and federal aid to education. The committee has Kimberly, Gene Schuh, Donald guilty Monday afternoon to a had one meeting to date and decided its initial effort would be to acquaint citizens on the Van Grinsven, Town of Buchanan.

A referendum on whether to float a $425,000 bond issue will be held Oct. 12. Of this amount, $325,000 will be used to complete the second floor of the high school and enlarge the industrial arts and music departments at the school. The remainder would be used for equipment, legal and architect fees. Initially the second floor will help solve a room problem which will arise in 1966.

The room problem will be created by the elimination of the second grade at Holy Name of Jesus School which will result in more than 200 additional students in the public school system in 1966-67.

Members of the committee include Sylvester Lenz, Mrs. Francis Vander Velden, Dr. Michael Canan, Mrs. Charles V. Zanden, John Van Munn, Kenneth Bobber, Marvin Schense, Elmer Hoffman, Ted Heid and Elwood Harke, all of county jail after he pleaded guilty Monday afternoon to a disorderly conduct charge.

Doxlator appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, following an incident Sept. 11 in the Town of Oneida.

Crowding Brings Most of Problems At AHS, Principal Tells Board

2,181 Students Attending School Built For 1,500 Creates System Which Is 'Not Best'

Some of the problems of the senior high school were outlined and community cooperation requested by Orlyn Ziemann, acting principal, at the Appleton Board of Education meeting Monday.

Most of the problems, of course, stemmed from the overcrowded conditions.

"Because we have to educate 2,181 youths in a high school built for 1,500, we have had to devise a system which might not be the best but which has to serve us until a better one can be found," he said.

Many of these problems will be eliminated once the new high school is complete about two years from now.

Eight Periods

Under the present system there are eight 55-minute periods during the day. Since there is literally no room for study halls, the school has tried to arrange each student's schedule so that he is free either the first or the eighth period.

"This means that the students with second-hour classes don't have to show up until the second period and those who have no eighth hour class can leave at the end of the seventh hour."

"We have also had to set up three lunch hours — fourth, fifth and sixth periods," Ziemann said. "Consequently there is noise in the halls during five periods of the day."

All the students are either in class or study hall during the second, third and seventh periods.

"During the five periods when some of the students are free, there is bound to be some disturbance downtown and in the neighborhood," Ziemann said.

under these difficulties," he added.

During a discussion which followed the report, the board decided to investigate the situation.

One possible temporary solution, they felt, might be the two-shift day. The hours would be from 7 a.m. to noon and from noon to 5 p.m.

However, no action was taken Monday.

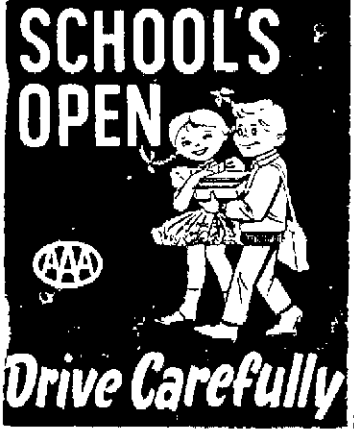

Wives Joined Their husbands Monday afternoon at the picket line outside the Leach Co. plant at Oshkosh where Local No. 1108 of the United Auto Workers is on strike. Strike issues seem to be discussed in small clusters by some of the pickets and wives on hand at the plant when the non-striking employees were to leave. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Woman Denies Guilt On Conduct Charge

Mrs. Jeanine Rosenthal, 27, 1302 E. Fremont St., Appleton, pleaded innocent to a charge of disorderly conduct when she appeared Monday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

The complaint, signed by Appleton police, alleges that Mrs. Rosenthal threatened her husband on Sept. 11.

Trial date was set for Sept. 22 and bond was set at $100.

Orderliness Prevailed on the picket line at Leach Co. in Oshkosh Monday afternoon as non-striking employees left the plant, aided by some 70 policemen from Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha and Winnebago County who formed a cordon through which the cars could leave the plant which was struck last Wednesday by the United Auto Workers Local No. 1108. About 100 pickets were on hand both Monday night and this morning, including the wives of some of the strikers. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Neenah-Menasha Chamber

Back Outagamie For University Site

NEENAH - MENASHA — The Chamber of Commerce of Neenah-Menasha passed a resolution Monday backing Outagamie County for the location of the planned 3rd and 4th year University of Wisconsin.

In going on record for an Outagamie site, the board listed the following advantages:

1. Area accessibility — via U.S. 41 for commuting students which would cut travel time.
2. An Outagamie site would encompass an area of more than 500,000 population, located in the third fastest growth area in Wisconsin.
3. Enhancement of services to the two major two-year extension centers located in the area.
4. It would relieve the ever-increasing enrollment pressure at the University of Wisconsin.

Education Site Chamber Executive Secretary John Konrad said the main consideration of the chamber board was the amount of education service that would be provided for the Twin City area. He explained that there is no site large enough to accommodate the projected school of 25,000 students in the Neenah-Menasha area, so the board chose to back an Outagamie site as the next most desirable alternative.

Many of the Twin City students will still be able to live at home if Outagamie County is chosen, which would not be the case if the huge school is located near Green Bay, he said.

Menasha Teachers Seek Minimum Wage of $5,200

MENASHA — Menasha public school teachers presented salary demands to the board of education Monday for the 1966-67 school year that would increase a beginning teacher's wage by $500 to $5,200.

The four-man negotiating committee for Local 1166 of the Menasha Teachers Union of the AFL-CIO presented their demands, in which salary is the main issue, to a four-man negotiating team for the board.

On the high end of the salary scale, the union has asked for a reduction in salaries of about $500, down from $10,900 to $10,400.

Under the new proposal by the union, the maximum wage level would go to a teacher with a master's degree, 24 extra credits and approximately 12 years of experience.

Presently there are three higher categories for teachers at the 15, 25, and 30-year levels of experience. These would be eliminated under the new contract proposed by the union.

Bids Being Sought for Neenah Post Office

NEENAH — The postmaster general announced Monday that competitive bids are being sought to build and lease a new post office.

The new facility will be constructed by private capital to specifications designed by the postal department and offered to the department on a long term lease.

The building will be constructed under the postal department's lease construction program. The successful bidder will purchase the property, construct the building and lease it to the postal department for a selections as well as four basic period of 20 years, with musical compositions based on options to renew the lease for an additional 30 years.

Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of said ordinance shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not less than $1.00 or more than $10.00 for each and every offense, together with the cost of prosecution, or 10 days in the County jail.

With this in mind, Bues indicated he had checked out the city's old blacktop-making equipment and it could be put into operation almost immediately so the city could make its own street patching material.

Bues said he demonstrated how he felt on the issue when he went to Badger Highways Friday with the two city trucks.

Ziemann voted against the recommendation to start up the municipal blacktop plant because, he said, the city was being intimidated through no fault of its own.

In the meantime, the second meeting between labor and management negotiators since the strike started is scheduled Wednesday at the Conway Hotel with a mediator.

Wages, working conditions and contract language are the main issues in the dispute.

Outagamie Surplus

Government Will Buy Cabbage

WASHINGTON — The government will buy for institutional use a portion of the fresh green cabbage surplus held by producers in Outagamie County, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, (D-Wis.) has announced.

The unusually large crop, which has resulted from ideal cabbage growing conditions in northeastern Wisconsin, is estimated at 2,000 tons more than can be moved commercially to sauerkraut canners, grocery wholesalers and other outlets. The estimate was made following a weekend survey.

Nelson urged the government purchases after he was contacted by the Outagamie County Vegetable Growers Association.

Prompt Action
He told federal officials that prompt action was essential because warmer weather could cause heavy losses through spoilage.

The Department of Agriculture was the first agency to respond favorably to Nelson's request for surplus commodities purchases. Cabbage purchased under this program is used for school lunches.

Nelson also has asked the General Services Administration and the Army, Navy, and Air Force to purchase some of the surplus Wisconsin cabbage. The GSA purchases for government cafeterias and welfare institutions.

can't overpower the situation" with additional men, contending that an increase in the staff's manpower would not necessarily cut down on traffic accidents. He added, however, that if 24-hour protection is to be reached, staff additions must be made.

24 Hours Coverage

County Sheriff Calvin Spice also said a larger staff would be needed if 24-hour protection were desired. Spice said he knew of no counties of comparable size, road mileage and population as Outagamie that do not have 24-hour police coverage. A county of 100,000, Spice said, needs 24-hour protection.

The basic problem was whether to go ahead and allow the additional expense in the interest of public safety, as Supv. Eugene F. Kloes (App. 4th) advocated, or consider the expense first, as Catlin insisted be done.

Other Action

In other action this morning, the board:

Heard and accepted a letter from Lee Penney on his resignation as director of the Outagamie-Appleton Civil Defense.

Approved transferring $12,000 from the contingent fund to the Foster Home account and Poor Relief and Wisconsin general accounts to provide for additional expenses needed in providing for county foster children at home sin the area. The previous budget called for $7,000 per year and board members were told that next year's budget would probably require $24,000, due, according to County Court Judge Raymond Dohr, to an increased load in constant care cases.

2,149 Vote by Noon in Referendum Election working with the city clerk on a "no" vote campaign.

Words flowed like water over a local radio station Monday with personalities and emotions mixed in with the issues.

Al C. Fischer, former 14th Ward alderman who served one term on the council and declined re-election, claimed a meeting of the council he attended was secret and he questioned the legality of the charter ordinances.

The printed council record refuted Fischer's claim.

At the Feb. 17 council meeting an executive session was held to discuss personnel problems. The vote for the executive meeting was 20 to 0.

When the council reported out from the executive session, it was unanimous also in accepting with regret the resignation of Finance Director Donald Hassler, who singled out the city clerk for failing to cooperate.

The record shows Fischer seconded the motion and voted with the 19-1 majority that the city clerk, attorney, assessor and treasurer be made appointive, and the attorney and welfare - ordinance committee were instructed to prepare the charter ordinances by the March 3 council meeting for publication.

Ruling By Attorney

City Atty. Frederick E. Froehlich, in response to questions, indicated that the council met all legal requirements in its deliberations. The entire report of the executive meeting was adopted 19-1, Fischer voting with the majority.

And, Fischer was the alderman making the motion, the council proceedings show, to have the minutes of the executive session destroyed.

Ralph Dorn, 20, of 136 N. Story St., contacted some aldermen this week, asking them to become candidates for mayor next spring. They declined, The Post-Crescent learned.

Dorn, active in the "no" vote committee, said his group mounted an anti-Mayor Mitchell campaign last spring and would continue to do so. He claimed to have petitions, which he described as "homemade with several hundred signatures" opposing the mayor.

At first Dorn said he was a political science major at Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh but indicated later that he intends to drop out of school to accept a job at Marinette. Dorn said he will not be old enough to vote until next spring.

Former City Attorney

Coming out strong for a "yes" vote was Don Jury, who served four terms as Appleton city attorney from 1954 to 1962. In a radio statement, Jury contended the four offices in question were administrative and should have continuity to them. He said it was unfair to the voters, administration and officeholders with the administrative officials having to wage election campaigns every two years. Jury said the appointive system should apply to the four offices because they are non-policy-making.

Asked today how he felt about the city attorney's duties, Jury said, "It definitely should be a full-time and appointive post."

Gordon Bubolz, an Appleton attorney, former state senator, and president of Home Mutuals Insurance Co. in the Town of Menasha, took to the airways favoring a "no" vote last Saturday, and his same statement appeared in Monday's people's forum.

A strong rebuttal to Bubolz's statement came from Atty. Karl Baldwin, civic and business leader who was instrumental in the forming of Appleton's new airline, Air Wisconsin. Baldwin spoke out in favor of a "yes" vote.

Ald. Glen Thompson (13th), who has been assisting the city clerk and the committee pushing for a "no" vote, was chided by some union representatives today who said he was not speaking for organized labor in Appleton. Thompson is a union official at one of the mills.

Heads of four major unions said the labor council had discussed the referendum question but did not take an official stand. "Our position has been one of neutrality," a labor spokesman said.

In the meantime, city officials and citizen volunteers working for a "yes" vote reported receiving more unsigned cards in the mail with personal, inflammatory remarks on them. Postal authorities are being notified, they said.

An Appleton housewife, active in the "yes" vote drive, reported to city officials that her car-top sign had been sprayed with black paint.

Seymour, Iola Expect Okay on Golf Links Loan

Local Banks Provide Government Insured FHA Financing

Final arrangements on Farmer Home Administration (FHA) loans for two Fox Valley area golf course organizations are expected to be completed by Sept. 20, the state office has notified its Appleton office manager, James Suehring.

The Crystal Springs Golf Course, Inc., Seymour, is seeking a $157,000 loan for its proposed 18-hole course.

A loan for an Iola course will be $109,500. The final docket is being prepared on it.

A third course is in the study stage near Wittenberg, which is being joined by Bowler and Tigerton in a nine-hole course and clubhouse venture under the name of Maple Hills Golf Club, Inc.

Membership Drive

The Seymour course organization is expected to get $27,750 from its membership drive.

The recreation facility is located two miles northwest of Seymour on the former Norbert VandenHeuvel farm. Construction is expected to begin this fall.

The government insured loan funds will be shared by five banks including two in Seymour and others in Black Creek, Nichols and Pulaski.

The facility, when completed next year, will be one of two new recreation spots in Seymour.

Rift Over Pay Plan Halts Neopit Mill

Misunderstanding Resolved; Men Back on Jobs After Brief Layoff

NEOPIT — A work stoppage that the workers were never at the Menominee Enterprises paid less than their original base pay.

blamed on a misunderstanding of the union contract in a joint statement issued by Menominee Enterprises and the local union.

Four men working on the "Green Train", a conveyor which carries graded lumber out into the yard for piling left the job because their wages fell below what they anticipated they would receive when they contracted to work on an incentive plan, according to George Kenote, Menominee Enterprises manager.

This unauthorized walk-off, Kenote claimed, caused the entire mill to shut down when production was interrupted and word was passed around that a strike was in process. The mill was completely shut down for less than 10 hours, according to Kenote, but the boilers were kept going.

General Meeting
After the walkoff Monday morning, it was announced that there would be a general meeting at the St. Anthony gymnasium. But this meeting was headed off when Enterprises and union officials met about 1 p.m. Shortly after 2 p.m. Kenote announced, "The management of Menominee Enterprises and the union have resolved the issues of misunderstanding in the contract and the night shift is to report for work at 5 p.m."

Kenote said the incentive play with which the four employees were dissatisfied was initiated at the suggestion or the employees in an effort to allow them to make money over their base rate, which they did for the first two weeks of the experiment period. But then, because of operational problems in the mill, when the anticipated extra money was not forthcoming, the men left the job, prompting the shutdown. He said, however,

Betsy Prods Government Into Program To Track, Seed Hurricanes in Future

Environmental Science Study Underway

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is moving in the wake of Hurricane Betsy to try to lessen the impact of future hurricanes.

If it is successful, the storms will be detected earlier, tracked more accurately — and, possibly, seeded into harmlessness.

But all this may be a long way off, a report presented Monday to President Johnson by Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor indicated.

The report, essentially an account of what the brand new Environmental Science Services Administration is doing or would like to do about the weather, made these major points.

1 The government must explore the possibilities of controlling the weather.

World 'Watch'

2 The Commerce Department is speeding plans for U.S. participation in a world "weather watch" — an international pooling of weather information.

3 A special federal survey group soon will recommend an improved system of warning the nation of weather hazards.

On this last point, the government's weathermen — like Air Force chiefs at the Pentagon — talk about "fail-safe facilities."

In essence, the problem is how to get warnings to the people when a power failure has knocked radio and television stations off the air.

Communications Media

Discussing the report with newsmen, J. Herbert Holloman, assistant secretary of commerce for science and technology, spoke of arrangements for "back-up power for communications media," but neither he nor the report spelled this out.

Holloman said the Hurricane Betsy warnings had saved hundreds of thousands of lives. Presumably more lives could be saved if the Weather Bureau could keep the warnings going into homes when the hurricane presses in and ravages power facilities.

On changing or controlling the weather, the government is stepping cautiously.

Dr. Robert White, administrator of the new environmental administration, said only two attempts have been made to break up a hurricane by seeding it with silver iodide crystals. In both instances, he said, results were inconclusive.

Illiteracy Program

12-Hour, 31-Minute Session

House Completes Day With Record Roll Calls, No Laws Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House leadership wasn't taking the bill and the bank act amendments seriously, Speaker John W. McCormack sent his majority leader, Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., to summon reporters to a quick news conference.

He said he was doing all he could to break what he charged was a "limited filibuster" aimed at the equal employment

What happened was that Republicans and some Southern Democrats tried to use the rule book to derail the Democratic express.

The result was a twisted parliamentary track, some steamy words and repeated cries of "Point of order, Mr. Chairman — a quorum isn't present."

With each roll call requiring about 25 minutes, much of Monday's sessions was devoted to the dropping of names.

"Abbitt Abernethy ... Adair AFdams ...

The previous record was 15 roll calls in one day in 1952. Although not a single bill was passed, the big Democratic majority still delivered the freight, or at least some of it.

The House approved resolutions under the new 21-day rule to bypass the Rules Committee and bring up four bills later in the session.

The bills would raise the pay of federal employees, create a foundation on the arts and humanities, strengthen enforcement of the Equal Employment Opportunity Act and amend the Bank Holding Act.

When the witching hour came and went, however, the House decided to put aside three other similar resolutions and call it quits.

Objected to Block
Heart of the coalition's objection was the way the resolutions had been brought to the floor in a block of seven.

It charged the procedure was an unfair slap at the Rules Committee, that it was an improper use of the 21-day rule — adopted to limit the Rules Committee's power to bottle up bills — and suggested it was mainly a fancy maneuver in the squabble over home rule for the nation's capital.

To drive home the objections, the coalition demanded that the journal of the previous meeting be read in full, rather than in the usual abbreviated form.

With most of the Republicans and Southerners making themselves scarce when points of no quorums were raised, the reading of the journal was interrupted so often it took more than six hours.

Apparently needed by suggestions the Democratic Presidential Medals Given Astronauts

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr. get a presidential welcome with all the trimmings today.

The cheerful Gemini 5 twins who orbited to space records last month in their eight-day fight were to be awarded exceptional service medals by President Johnson during a White House ceremony.

The presidential call was to be followed by lunch with the Space Sciences Board of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a motorcade to the Capitol and a welcoming reception at the House of Representatives.

During the day Cooper and Conrad also hope to find out more about their 12-day, six-country goodwill tour that begins Wednesday with a trip to the congress of the International Astronautical Federation at Athens, Greece.

Other stops will be at Izmir and Ankara, Turkey; Addis Ababa, Ethiopia; Tananarive, Malagasy Republic; Nairobi, Kenya, and Lagos and Kano, Nigeria.

No itineraries have been announced for the hastily arranged tour. A NASA official said most of the details have been left to the American officials in each country.

Because of the desire to stress the peaceful aspects of space exploration, the astronauts will should be allowed, but that it travel in civilian clothes although Cooper is an Air Force lieutenant colonel and Conrad is a Navy commander.

Speaks In State

Demonstrators Aid Foes, Taylor Says

SUPERIOR (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor criticized Monday demonstrators against U.S. policy on Viet Nam as "extremists who give aid and comfort to the enemy."

Taylor, until recently U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, said American soldiers in the Asian conflict are bewildered and angered by demonstrations at home.

The general said he had encountered more antagonism from demonstrations in the United States than in Saigon.

"The real damage," he added, "is in Hanoi. We are trying to convince them that they can't win, but they take comfort from this picketing in the delusion that we are hopelessly split at home."

Spoke in Superior
Taylor spoke at a news conference in neighboring Duluth, Minn., and at a testimonial dinner here for Superior lawyer Andy Borg, newly elected national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

About six pickets, holding signs reading "End Viet War Now," marched outside the Superior State University student center as Taylor spoke.

Borg said he felt picketing should be allowed, but that it should not interfere with U.S. military efforts.

Taylor called for "tightening the noose of devastation on North Viet Nam" and said air attacks should continue along with assaults on supply lines.

Taylor said at the dinner the United States must "remind the leaders of Hanoi that they must pay progressively for their action in the South."

Not Ready for Talks
He said this nation should remain willing and prepared to discuss peace, but added he didn't feel the time was ripe yet for negotiations.

Taylor told the news conference he could envision a settlement "after we have destroyed enough Viet Cong to change the will of the Communist opponent."

The former ambassador rejected any suggestion of apathy among the Vietnamese toward the long struggle and said their casualties in the last four years totaled 100,000, a figure equal to 1 million if the same percentage were applied to the United States.

"Never let it be said that these people aren't laying down their lives," Taylor told the dinner audience.

Errand-Boy Porpoise Aids Sealab

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — A watchdog-errand boy porpoise called Tuffy began working today for aquanauts living in Sealab 2 on the ocean bottom.

Tuffy, a 7-foot, 270-pound male porpoise, was airlifted by helicopter from Point Mugu, Calif., Monday.

His duties include simulated rescues and mail and message deliveries from the surface 205 feet down to the bottom — a 45-second trip for Tuffy.

The trip up for the first team of aquanauts who lived 15 days in Sealab took 10 minutes Sunday, but the nine divers were confined 33 hours in a decompression chamber until midnight Monday.

Tuffy needs no decompression and one of his handlers, aquanaut Kenneth J. Conda, 32, Phoenix, Mich., said he expects the mammal to make about 20 trips daily.

He is called Tuffy because of his reputation as a scrapper with sharks, evidenced by scars on his body.

Only one shark has been reported in the area since the first team went down Aug. 28. It was a 5 1/2-foot blue shark, killed on the surface by a bow and arrow.

"Sharks don't usually lurk in deep waters," Conda said, "although I've been chased down by them in the past."

"Sharks have a 65-to-85-foot deep cruising range."

"Tuffy is so well-trained he can come down and tap a lost diver on the shoulder and hand him a life line," Conda said.

Jingo Disagrees With Highly Touted Ratings

N. W. Ayer's Predictions on Top 20 TV Programs 'All Wet,' Says Columnist

BY JINGO
The annual N.W. Ayer television forecast has listed what it feels will be the top shows in the first couple of months of the new season.

According to Jingo's observation, the survey is simply all wet. Ayer predicts the following shows to be the top 20:

1 - "Bonanza"; 2 - "Gomer Pyle"; 3 - "Walt Disney"; 4 - "Bewitched"; 5 - "Beverly Hillsbillies"; 6 - "Red Skelton"; 7 - "Get Smart"; 8 - "Flipper"; 9 - "Green Acres" (WHAT!?!?!); 10 - "Lucy Show"; 11 - "The Munsters"; 12 - "Hank"; 13 - Mr. Roberts; 14 - "Peyton Place II"; 15 - "Andy Griffith"; 16 - "Wackiest Ship in the Army"; 17 - "I Dream of Jeannie"; 18 - "Ed Sullivan"; 19 - "Lassie"; and 20 - "Jackie Gleason."

Granted, many of the shows listed will be popular, but some of them are so far out they won't even last the season. For instance, "Hank" is not even being shown by many local affiliates, including Channel 5 in Green Bay.

Even more interesting than the top 20 is the list of shows that Ayer feels will be the 10 least popular of the new season. "U.N.C.L.E." and nobody is starting with the least popular, more surprised by it than Robert Vaughn.

The actor plays Napoleon Solo, the man from the alphabetized undercover organization, "The Honey West" and the "Bell show appears to have been taken up as a cause by teen-agers. It's inconceivable that "I along with stretch pants and folk music. Both Vaughn, 32, and costar David McCallum have been getting Beatle-like treatment wherever they go.

"It's something quite new to me," observed Vaughn after stripping out of a skin-diving suit he had worn in an MGM lake.

New Experience
"Before I was always playing villains, I received fan mail, but it was largely about acting. Now the mail comes in a flood and it concerns all kinds of personal matters. And the crowds."

He had returned from a weekend appearance at a Detroit amusement park, and he still seemed shaken by the experience.

"I've been in crowds before, but this was the first time I was really frightened," he remarked. "I saw several thousand girls between the ages of 11 and 15 coming at me on a mad run, with only a dozen policemen with locked arms in front of me. The girls grabbed my coat, my tie—I thought I was going to lose a whole head of hair."

New Time Slot
The U.N.C.L.E. mania is likely to flourish in the coming season, provided NBC hasn't out-summer reruns than on the first started itself with a schedule time around. Starting Sept. 17, switch. The series has been the show will appear in the east corner a highly respectable and west at 10 p.m. Friday.

If you seek more relief than you may now be getting, join the thousands of hemorrhoid (pile) sufferers now turning to new M.P.O. Developed by famous Mentholatum Laboratories, M.P.O. works in these five ways:

1. Helps ease pain faster. M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the preparation you may now be using . . . to help reduce pain and discomfort.
2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M.P.O. quickly releases the proven vaso-constrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate.
3. Helps relieve embarrassing itching. M.P.O.'s medication is homogenized for faster absorption, faster action.
4. Helps make relief last longer. M.P.O.'s more temperature-stable base holds medication in place for prolonged action.
5. Helps fight danger of infection. Proven germ-killer, Hexachlorophene, combats bacteria.

Test it yourself for the next three days. If not satisfied that M.P.O. helps you more than the preparation you're now using, return unused portion to the Mentholatum Co., Buffalo, N. Y., for full refund. Available in stainless ointment or suppositories at all drug counters.

Review Asked Of Pollution Control Effort

Conservation Unit Seeks Legislative Committee Study

The Wisconsin Resource Conservation Council has forwarded a resolution to Gov. Warren Knowles requesting him to appoint a joint legislative committee to "review and make recommendations on the functions of the State Committee on Water Pollution."

John Franson of Fond du Lac, council secretary, commended the governor for proposing a public conference on water pollution but asked for the additional appointment of a legislative committee. "We feel the appointment of a joint legislative committee to conduct the study of these problems should be a natural step in following the public conference on this issue."

In proposing the appointment of a legislative committee in October, the Resource Council secretary stated, "If additional laws or finances or changes in our agency structure are needed, we feel that it would be most appropriate for the legislature to ferret these out."

Paul Romig of Green Bay, the group's vice president, said, "We do not mean this as a slap in the face to the Committee on Water Pollution but we do mean that it is evident the problem is getting worse and the job isn't being done." Romig stated.

The Wisconsin Resource Conservation Council is composed of various citizen's groups, women's clubs and conservation organizations throughout Wisconsin.

Nomination of Kohler Contains Certain Historical Plausibility

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Members of both political parties in the legislature are proceeding on the assumption that there will be another recess, rather than a final adjournment, when the lawmakers end their fall term deliberations.

The legislature will return to the capitol on Oct. 4.

The outlook is for a session lasting at least a month.

But even if all the work is unfinished at the end of October, there will be a tendency to push for another recess, perhaps until March or April of next year.

Democrats who control the assembly will probably insist upon such a schedule as a means of maintaining watch on the goings of the Republican state administration. Republicans won't be able to object very logically or persuasively, since they did precisely the same thing in the way of maneuver when they faced Democratic governors during three preceding terms.

During snatches between a busy schedule of engagements last week, and in preparation for his European tour departure early this week, Gov. Warren Knowles consulted with his principal advisors on the preparation of messages and proposals for the fall legislative session that will keep law-makers more heavily engaged than they may have expected, or desired.

Knowles will have major propositions in the field of highway construction acceleration, water pollution control action, acquisition of recreational lands, and possibly others.

Gov. Knowles' nomination of former Gov. Walter J. Kohler to the reorganized Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, announced Monday, is expected to return the former three-term executive to the public affairs scene. Kohler is expected to become chairman of the committee.

There will be a certain historical plausibility in the elevation of Kohler to the leadership of a board that will confront more numerous and more difficult challenges than any other state government policy-making organization.

The new Coordinating Committee law points more directly to the centralization of direction of the huge state-supported system of higher education which Kohler urged in 1955, during his last term in the executive office. He was forced to compromise then and to accept the Coordinating Committee device because the state had not yet ready for literal consolidation of the control of the separate elements of the system.

Madison is speculating about the secession to one of the important directorships among the schools of the University of Wisconsin.

Ralph A. Mafziger, widely known and loved head of the School of Journalism for many years, is contemplating retirement. Campus reports indicate that the choice of a successor, if the University's regents confine their recruiting to the staff, will be between Profs. Harold Nelson and Scott Cudlip. Both men have national reputations in the journalism teaching profession.

Observers wonder whether Democrats who have been trying out the executive mansion repair: appropriation as a campaign issue may not have second thoughts about it.

LT. Gov. Patrick Lucey and other Democrats have pounced upon the supposed extravagance of the state administration in authorizing a $248,000 remodeling fund for the house provided for Wisconsin governors. But they have not been able to draw Gov. Knowles into the argument.

Instead, they have found vigorous and willing rejoinders from Mrs. Dorothy Knowles, the governor's wife, who gives every indication that she will continue the fight if the opposition wants to do so. Query among the practical politicians: is it a dignified or popular posture to carry on a public quarrel with a lady?

trators in the state services are hopefully awaiting the fall session of the legislature because of the prospect of some modest advances in their salaries.

It is one of the curious facts about state policy that some of the most responsible of the state officials are working for relatively modest salaries, and are frequently passed over when raises are authorized for their subordinates. There is also a glaring gap between some of their salaries, limited expressly by statute, and other ranking administrators who are not limited by law, including senior faculty members and numerous administrators of higher educational institutions.

In a few cases a department head in the capitol may work for pay amounting to only half of the salary paid to educational administrators, although the former does not enjoy security of tenure and often has a more difficult job.

Dancer Convicted Of Six Narcotics Law Violations

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Lillian Reis, known in professional dancing circles as Tiger Lil, was free on $5,000 appeal bond today after being convicted on six counts involving narcotics violations.

Judge Jack Turner sentenced the former dancer Monday to two years on each charge, with the terms to run concurrently.

Miss Reis, 36, mother of two daughters, faces a non-jury trial Friday on charges of illegal possession of drugs.

She also is free on appeal bond for a Pennsylvania conviction involving the theft of about $400,000 from the home of coal baron John B. Rich. Rich said the loss was about $20,000 mostly in jewels, but police placed it at the higher figure.

Miss Reis testified that she had obtained prescriptions for drugs under an assumed name because "I'm not taken as sincere when I use my theatrical name of Lillian Reis. Neighbors treat me differently. If it's buying something, the price goes up."

Daisies Looks Like Jackpot Television Bit

BY TV SCOUT

7-7:30 (Channels 4-5)—Please Don't Eat the Daisies, based on Jean Kerr's best-selling book and film hit, is one of the more rewarding new situation comedies. Patricia Crowley is especially attractive as the modern mom of four rump-haired boys, and the wife of college professor Mark Miller. They live in a Charles Addams-type house that is far from gloomy, where Pat sleeps until noon every day and lets her men shift for themselves. First episode concerns a minor crisis (she has written revealing articles about her spouse) and there is a particularly funny moment when Mark rudely awakens Pat by tossing her in the shower. But what distinguishes this series is the sophisticated dialogue and deft direction. (Premiere)

6:30-7 (Channels 4-5)—My Mother the Car goes several honks beyond the talking horse. Mr. Ed. The tykes will especially like this one, and so will adults who has speculated on reincarnation. Jerry Van Dyke plays a young lawyer (a struggling one, with a wife and two children) who buys a 1928 jalopy, which is now the soul-and-body of his long dead mother. Ann Sothern provides the voice of the car, and she, whether you want to believe it or not, is highly amusing. (Premiere-Color)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-6-9)—Combat returns for its fourth season, with an interesting, although highly improbable drama, "Main Event." Jack Carter, guest stars as a cocky boxing manager who goes to some exasperating means to keep his fighting discovery, Ben Cooper, from a dangerous mission—blowing up a bridge under fire. All the regulars, including Vic Morrow and Rick Jason, are back. New film footage of European battle sites add authenticity to this well-photographed series. (Season Premiere)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-12)—"Encounter at Boot Hill" opens the seventh season for Rawhide, the durable western. New trail boss is Clint Eastwood, whose squad of drovers include David Watson (a devil-may-care Englishman) and Raymond St. Jacques (the first Negro cowpoke in a continuing TV role). Wishbone (Paul Brinegar) is back, but several old timers, including Eric Fleming, have retired from the series. (Season Premiere)

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5)—Dr. Kildare makes its second appearance of the week with the second part of its four parter, "A Life for a Life." Monda Kildare was getting to know surgeon James Mason, and his troubled, alcoholic wife, Margaret Leighton. This time the tete-a-tetes are over when Mason gets badly burned and blames the young Kildare. (Color)

7:30-8 (Channels 11-6-9)—There have been some changes in the McHale's Navy, which voice Italian Style; A House is made its fourth season. The Not a Home. Shows start at swabbies have moved from the dusk.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12)—The Red Skelton Hour back for its 15th season has a merry opener for fans of the red-haired comedian. Guest Paul Ford is very funny, playing the world's worst ventriloquist. Freddy & the Dreamers provide two pimple numbers, "A Little You" and "I'm Telling You Now" which were filmed in England. (Season Premiere-Color)

8-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9)—F Troop, a new comedy series, tries its best to rib westerns as it swirls around Ken Barry, the new captain of a far-west, and far-out outpost, Fort Courage. Around to undermine him are Forrest Tucker (a sergeant) and Larry Storch (a corporal), who used the fort to operate their own black market. First episode is a slambang trifle, with inspecting officers and injuns who have to be taught the war dance. (Premiere)

8-10 (Channels 4-5)—Tuesday Night at the Movies, a new series of feature films, debuts with "The Bridges at Toko-Ri," an engrossing Korean War drama of brave jet pilots. The excellent cast is headed by William Holden, Grace Kelly, Frederic March and Mickey Rooney. (Premiere-Color)

8:30-9 (Channels 11-6-9)—Peyton Place is gloomier than usual as the town reacts to Joe Chernak's death. There are many heart-to-heart scenes: Dr. Rossi and Joe's sister, Stella; Rita and Rod, and then Rita and Norman, who begins remembering his dead mother. Ad finally, Sergeant Goddard who begins in earnest his hunt for the "killer."

8:30-9 (Channels 2-7-12)—Petticoat Junction begins its third season with a casual little tale which tells of Kate becoming a second Dear Abby. She pens a column for the lovelorn, and because she doesn't want the family to know, sends her advice to the newspaper via her dog, P.J. (Season Premiere-Color)

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9)—The Fugitive begins another year on the run. Again, David Janssen has a close call in "Wings of an Angel." This time he is wounded helping the police capture an escaped convict and lands in the civilian ward of a state prison hospital. (Season Premiere)

Calumet Accident Occurs on State 57 When Car Swerves

CHILTON — Two persons received minor injuries in a two-car collision Saturday morning on State 57 one mile northwest of Kiel.

Dawn A. Klimek, 23, Green Bay, was thrown from her vehicle and received bruises on her head and hip. She told Calumet County police that as she was approaching a curve she lost control of the car and swerved.

Richard M. Syslo, 43, Chicago, driver of the other car, told authorities he was following the Klimek vehicle when it swerved, his car struck the rear and side of the car. He received a cut knee. Both were advised to see doctors.

Neither driver was injured when autos driven by Joan Ulrich, 24, 1815 Plank Road, parking lot when her auto was Menasha, and Mary Parker, 20, 130 Jackson St., Menasha, collided at 12:55 a.m. Saturday one was headed north, stopped at a mile east of Menasha on U. S. stop sign, and assumed the other car would turn right at the corner.

Mays' 500th Homer Boosts Giants' Lead To 2½ Over Los Angeles

Blast Is 47th of Season for Willie; Pirates Tip Reds

500 plus 22 plus 11 equals 2½. And that's the largest lead any National League team has had in a month.

The San Francisco Giants continued opening up the one-hitter Monday night, defeating Houston 5-1 behind Willie Mays and Juan Marichal and moving 2½ games in front of the idle Los Angeles Dodgers.

Mays clouted the 500th home run of his major league career while Marichal gained his 22nd victory of the season. Combined, they sparked the Giants to their 11th consecutive triumph, one less than the longest winning streak in the majors this year.

The home run for Mays, his 47th this season, came at the start of the fourth inning on a 3-1 pitch from Don Nottbart. It tied the game 1-1 and triggered a four-run rally that put San Francisco ahead to stay.

It also put Mays in a select class with Babe Ruth, 714 homers; Jimmy Foxx, 534; Ted Williams, 521, and Mel Ott, 511.

While it is virtually impossible for the 34-year-old Mays to catch Ruth, he very easily could pass the other three before the end of next season. When he hits his 512th, he will become the greatest home run hitter in the National League. Then when he reaches 535, he will be the greatest right-handed home run hitter in both leagues.

Commenting on Ruth's record, Mays said, "I'll have to average 40 a year to catch up with that guy. I don't think I can do it."

After Mays drove his homer into the center field stands he hit the first in his career in 1951 against Warren Spahn in New York's Polo Grounds — his teammates mobbed him and congratulated him. Then they went out and secured the victory for Marichal.

Was Suspended

It was the third in four decisions for the 26-year-old right-hander since he was suspended eight days for hitting catcher John Roseboro of Los Angeles on the head with a bat.

Marichal, who has lost 10 games, was booed by the Houston fans, but that didn't bother him as he scattered eight hits, tying Sandy Koufax as the winningest pitcher in the majors, completing his 24th game and reducing his stingy earned run average to 1.78.

In the only other NL games, Pittsburgh dropped Cincinnati 3½ games behind by winning 8-4 and Philadelphia edged Milwaukee 4-3, sending the Braves five back.

The only scheduled American League game, Cleveland at Baltimore, was rained out.

Marichal also contributed two hits to the Giants' attack, driving in a run in the fourth with a single and tripling home another in the sixth. Jim Wynn hit his Defending co-champion Xavier High School, of Appleton, has been tabbed as the favorite in the 1965 Fox Valley Catholic Conference football race by the Fox Valley Sportswriters Association.

Of eight writers voting on the Catholic loop outcome, six favored Xavier while two selected Green Bay Premontre for championship honors.

Xavier has won or shared the conference crown for four straight seasons. Last fall, Little Chute St. John tied the Hawks for the title.

Writers picked Abbot Pennings, of DePere, to finish a strong third as the Squires received one vote for second place and seven for third. Oshkosh Lourdes was picked for fourth place, St. Mary, Menasha, fifth; Marinette Central, sixth; St. John, seventh and St. Mary Springs, Fond du Lac, eighth.

Pennings and Premontre have the highest number of lettermen returning. Pennings has 18 monogram winners back, including 13 who saw action as regulars either on offense or defense last season. Premontre has 16 lettermen back of which seven were regulars.

Here is a rundown on teams, lettermen and the season outlook:

XAVIER: The defending co-champs have nine lettermen back, and Coach Gene Clark sends his team against tough Premontre right off the bat, Friday night at Green Bay.

Xavier opened the season by bowing to Francis Jordan, Milwaukee, 18-14, and then came

Cogdill Fractures Kneecap, Lost to Lions for 6 Weeks

Stallings, Pope, Woodson Among Other NFL Stars on Sidelines

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Casualties, cutdowns and continued expansion are today's prime pro football topics.

Several stars are on the National Football League's latest casualty list with injuries and ailments serious enough to keep them sidelined at least through next Sunday's opening action.

Included on that list are Gail Cogdill, the Detroit Lions' fine pass receiver; defensive back Lonnie Sanders of the Washington Redskins; linebacker Larry Stallings and defensive back Abe Woodson of the St. Louis Cardinals; and pass catcher Bucky Pope and defensive end Lamar Lundy of the Los Angeles Rams.

Cogdill suffered a fractured right kneecap in the Lions' exhibition game against the Redskins Sunday and will be idled five or six weeks. Sanders will be out the same length of time with a broken right forearm received in the same game. Washington linebacker Bob Pelgrini pulled a groin muscle against the Lions, making him doubtful for Sunday's opener against Cleveland.

Stallings and Woodson both were racked up in the Cards' battle against Green Bay last Saturday night. Stallings will be out indefinitely with torn ligaments in his left knee and Woodson, a kick return specialist as well as defensive back, is expected to miss three or four weeks with a dislocated shoulder.

Pope and rookie defensive back Clancy Williams have knee troubles, while Lundy is recuperating from a minor kidney operation. The Rams will be without all three in Sunday's game against Detroit.

The New York Giants trimmed to 40 players Monday by cutting three men and adding one. They dropped veteran defensive back Allan Webb along with two rookies, defensive and Frank McLendon and picked up defensive tackle Roger LaLonde, cut by the Lions.

Dallas also got down to 40 men, releasing defensive back Ernie Kellerman, while San Francisco dropped to 41 by cutting defensive back Bobby Waters and linebacker Floyd Dean.

The Pittsburgh Steelers signed defensive tackle Riley Gunnels, a six-year pro placed on waivers by Philadelphia.

Strand Placed on Waivers; Packers' Roster Youthful

Team Averages 5.2 Years in Pro Experience; 4 Rookies Retained

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — There's an old saying that an athlete doesn't reach his prime until about 26 or 27.

The Packers of 1965, reduced to the final NFL limit of 40 players today, are indeed just at their prime.

They average 26.2 years in age, and they have an average 5.2 years in pro experience.

Coach Vince Lombardi, who has kept the Packers youthful via trading and drafting, announced today that Eli Strand, rookie offensive lineman, has been placed on waivers.

One of Youngest

Certainly, this must be one of the youngest Packer teams — a most unusual fact when you consider that they are just three years removed from their last championship season and just two years removed from a virtual championship campaign the 2-loss 1963 race.

Lombardi said today he realized this is a young team "but I have no idea whether it's the youngest."

The final roster shows that four rookies made the team — three on offense (running backs Junior Coffey and Allen Jacobs and center Bill Curry) and one on defense (lineman Rich Marshall).

The major portion of the youth is concentrated in the 2- and 3-year area. Eight players are sophomores, and six are in their third years.

Only 16 of the 40 players have had more than six years of pro experience, which means that more than half is just now moving into the prime of their "experience" life.

The Bays have only ten 30-year-old players while an 11th, Jim Taylor, will turn 30 next Monday. The others are Zeke

Bruhn Shuffles Badger Lineup With Abandon

Lack of Depth Key Reason for Many Shifts in Backfield

MADISON (AP)—In the beginning there was the V-formation, then came the T-formation and the I-formation and the shotgun formation. Now the Wisconsin Badgers may throw the first whirling dervish backfield against Colorado in their football opener Saturday.

With the depth decidedly shallow, Badger Coach Milt Bruhn is switching players' positions like a man with a runaway roulette wheel.

Bruhn announced Monday that No. 1 fullback Tom Jankowski will also play part-time at left halfback. Jankowski will spell Jesse Kaye, who is No. 2 quarterback when he is not a halfback. Meanwhile, wingback Gary Bendor is now a split end. Jankowski, who used to be a halfback, became the top fullback when doctors ruled Kim Wood out for the season. Kaye, who once was a quarterback, then became a fullback.

Praised Bucciarelli

But Bruhn praised the performance of sophomore Gale Bucciarelli, a 212-pound Joliet, Ill., product, at fullback in last Saturday's scrimmage. Bucciarelli's performance might free Jankowski to go back to half so Kaye can go back to quarterback where sophomore John Boyajian also shined Saturday in backing up starting sophomore Chuck Burt.

Bendor, a 169-pound sophomore from Thorp, was singled out too by Bruhn for his Saturday work. The coach said, "Bendor blocked like a maniac. He was hitting somebody all afternoon."

In short, Bendor did such a good job he lost his position. With his blocking, he was reassigned to split end to back up senior Louis Jung.

This may be the season you can't tell the players without a scorecard—or even with one—and the dedicated fan comes to the game with a pocket computer.

Bruhn drilled the Badgers Monday on pass patterns, punting and kickoff plays, then led them inside the fieldhouse for a closed session on scouting reports on Colorado.

The Buffaloes, however, can throw away their scouting reports. Chances are they're already outdated, even before the first game.

AFL Votes to Expand to 10 Teams in '67

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The American Football League owners have voted to expand the league to 10 teams in 1967, and indicated they will add two more teams in 1968 and 1969.

The 10th team probably will be selected from among Chicago, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Milwaukee and Washington, sought the Republican nomination for governor that year but told newsmen Monday after a meeting of the owners.

"The sentiment I got from the owners," Foss said, "was we can go to 12 teams. Expansion beyond the 10th team definitely is contemplated."

A strong supporter of expansion, Foss apparently got the owners to go down the line on his recommendations.

Jump of 4 Teams

If the league is increased to 12 teams by 1969, it will mean a first selection in each succeeding jump of four teams in four years.

Last July the owners voted to draft, the 10th club will be permitted to draft four players from each of the other clubs — from each of the other clubs — with the other clubs being allowed to exempt only 23 players.

"I believe this arrangement is considerably more lenient than was the case when the National Football League expanded and stocked its new clubs," said Robbie.

Robbie and Foss, incidentally, were members of the South Dakota legislature in 1950. Foss Milwaukee and Washington, sought the Republican nomination for governor that year but told newsmen Monday after a meeting of the owners.

get someone scouting player prospects as quickly as possible."

Well Situated

The club already received a hundred or more applications for front office coaching staff positions, he said. Some of the applicants are "very well situated right now," he added.

The league also voted Monday to change the format for its All-Star Game. Instead of pitting the All-Stars of its Eastern Division against the All-Stars of the Western Division, they will have the championship club play the All-Stars from all the other clubs. No site for the next All-Star game has been selected.

Neurosurgeon Talks to Coaches

Player 'Okay' After Hard Block or Tackle Is Candidate for Fatality

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A football player who tells his coach he's "okay" after a bruising block or tackle and keeps playing is a candidate for a fatal injury, says a neurosurgeon.

"We know from experience that it is the groggy player who is most likely to be killed," says Dr. Frank P. Smith, clinical associate professor and chairman of the division of neurology at the University of Rochester.

He says the injuries normally affect the central nervous system and prevent the player from reacting properly to protect themselves from impacts that are fatal.

He cites as an example a player who suffers "an excessive stretching" of nerves at the base of the neck. This injury would limit head motion and field of vision, thus setting up the player for a second and possibly fatal injury, he says.

Smith spoke Monday to about 200 coaches, team physicians, and administrators of area high schools at a Monroe County medical society-sponsored athletic injury conference.

He urged the coaches not to accept the player's word that he is "okay" after an injury.

"Question them," said Smith, who is a former athlete. "Ask

Sprinkled With Youth

The Packers' starting defensive team is highly sprinkled with youth — especially if Tom Caravella, 24, gets the starting nod Monday after he suffered multiple injuries in their 20s except Davis and Jordan. The others are Ron Kostelnick, 25; Lionel Aldridge, 24; Ray Nitschke, 28; Lee Roy Caffey, 24; Dave Robinson, 24; Willie Wood, 28; Bob Jeter, 28; Doug Hart, 26, and Herb Adderley, 26.

Sixteen of the players are on defense, 23 are on offense and 23 are on defense and offense. Don Chandler, is on a team business when he wasn't racing, of his own — specialist first underwent surgery several hours after the crash for head and abdominal injuries. He had been listed in critical condition.

Here's a breakdown of the team by groups:

Quarterback — Bart Starr.

Linebackers — Ray Nitschke, Dave Robinson, Lee Roy Caffey, Tommy Crutcher.

Ken Pennington is assisting Jensen with the team. Kaukauna took third in the Mid-Eastern conference last year.

Serving as captain will be Jack Capen, a senior. Other letter winners are John Niesen, Dan Minkbige and James Marx, seniors, and Tim Leatherbury and Tom Vandenberg, juniors. Opening competition will be an invitational meet at Rhineland Saturday.

Braves Lose On Home Run By Dalrymple

Milwaukee Drops 5 Games Off Pace Of San Francisco

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An error that set up one run, a bases-loaded walk and a tie-breaking homer by Clay Dalrymple enabled Philadelphia to nip Milwaukee 4-3 Monday night as the Braves' pennant prospects continued to wither.

The defeat, the second in as many days for Milwaukee, dropped the fourth place Braves five games behind San Francisco with only 19 games left.

With 12 of the Braves' remaining matches against the Giants and second place Los Angeles, Milwaukee may have left only the opportunity to play spoiler as it did last season when the team knocked the Phillies off their prospective pennant pinnacle with four straight victories.

Gaining Revenge

The Phillies, gaining a measure of revenge, took full advantage of inept Brave defensive work in a climactic fifth inning Monday night.

Back-to-back doubles by Ed Matthews and Hank Aaron broke a 1-1 tie in the top of the inning and Mack Jones singled to score Aaron for a 3-1 edge.

But the Phils rebounded as singles by Richie Allen and Johnny Callison touched off the quick comeback in the bottom half of the inning.

With one out, Dick Stuart bounced a potential double play ball to first baseman Gene Oliver who hurled the ball into left field in his attempted force of Callison at second. Allen scored on the play and, with the runners now at second and third, Braves' starter Ken Johnson issued an intentional walk that filled the bases.

Johnson then proceeded to give up an unintentional pass to Dalrymple that forced in Callison with the tying run.

Culp Now 11-9

The Phils' Ray Culp, gaining his second victory over the Braves in less than a week to boost his record to 11-9, stayed in command the rest of the way and finished with 11 strikeouts even though he allowed 10 hits.

Coupled with Dick Selma's 1-0 victory for New York over the Braves Sunday, Culp's performance ran the total of Milwaukee's strikeouts victims for the last two games to 24.

The loss went to Phil Niekro, who replaced Johnson after his first three pitches in the seventh were balls. Niekro got the first two batters out and then served up a gopher ball that Dalrymple blasted over the right field wall for his third home run of the year and a 4-3 edge.

Culp retired the Braves in out-

Studstill, Henderson Vie For Cogdill's End Spot

Lions' Rushing Game Bolstered By Looney, Marsh

By BILL HALLS

DETROIT (AP) — If National Football League coaches could put a quarter in a vending machine that dispensed split ends, they'd probably hope one would come out looking like the Detroit Lions' Gail Cogdill.

He's big (208 pounds, 6-foot-3), fast, a good blocker, and good looking... and he can catch the ball.

If there were such a machine, Lions' Coach Harry Gilmer would be first in line.

Because the original Cogdill suffered a fractured right kneecap in Sunday's 20-3 loss to the Washington Redskins and will be out of action about six weeks. That's half an NFL season, considering recovery time and getting back in shape.

More important, it's something Gilmer, who replaced the well-liked George Wilson as head coach this year, can't afford.

About 50,000 fans will be sitting in Tiger Stadium Sunday when the Los Angeles Rams der the rest of the way.

The Braves got their first run in the opening inning on a single by Rico Carthy, a ground out and a single by Joe Torre. The Phils had tied the game in the second with singles by Tony Gonzales, Tony Taylor and Culp.

Leads Off With Double

Carthy led off in the third with a double and went to third on an error but was thrown out at the plate on Aaron's grounder.

Felipe Alou was hit by a pitch on the left wrist in the fourth and Frank Bolling singled to advance Alou to third with none out. But Sandy Alomar popped up and Johnson and Carthy fanned.

Oliver replaced Alou at first while the Dominican went to the hospital for X-rays. There was no fracture.

Hank Fischer, 6-5, will oppose the Phillies' Jim Bunning, 16-8, tonight.

Determination Aids Prep Athlete to Overcome Injury

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — Tracy Bunning, a quiet lad who likes to get things done on his own, walked into Port Clinton High School.

There was no fuss, no fanfare. But to the 17-year-old Bunning, it marked the keeping of a vow.

Six weeks ago, Bunning, a scholastic football, track and wrestling star, lay near death. He was injured critically in Maine when his motor scooter was hit by a car.

Bunning had been on a highway construction job getting in shape for the football season.

As he lay paralyzed in a Bangor, Maine hospital, doctors contemplated their next move.

One kidney had to be removed. Severe head injuries brought complete paralysis and brain surgery was considered as Bunning clung to a thread of life.

But the determined youth, conscious throughout his ordeal, had other ideas.

"I'll be Back"

"I'll be back for school," he insisted.

The plan for surgery was abandoned as Bunning showed steady improvement. On Aug. 14, he was allowed to return home to recuperate.

He still walks with a limp and his left arm is partly paralyzed. But even before his first day at school, he was going through light workouts at the football field, jogging around the track.

"I'd still like to go out for football but will have to wait and see," Bunning said. "I feel I definitely can make it in track and wrestling," he added confidently.

Doctors listed the youth's determination and superb physical condition as major factors in his almost miraculous recovery.

Dick Bloom, athletic director at the school, said he doubts Bunning will ever play football again but concedes he has a chance in track.

"He is a hardnosed type, always wants to get things done on his own," Bloom said. "I've known him since junior high. He wasn't as good as the other boys but he worked and developed himself into a fine athlete."

He is a very determined kid.

5 Changes in
For First Tilt

Tom Brown Starts
At Gramming's
GREEN BAY (AP) — The Green Bay Packers defense has a young and hungry look this year but there is nothing lean about it.

The Packers will have five of the 11 positions filled by faces fresh to their posts as they in-fresh Pittsburgh Sunday in their National Football League opener. The new starters are there solely because of their ability.

Tom Brown, a fleet second-year man from Maryland who gave up a promising baseball career to play pro football, has lettermen are back for Coach because of Larry Van Alstine to work with the Knights were 2-6-1 overall last season.

Monogram winners back include Ray Tuetten, Bob Horton defense and Jerry Morris, tackles; Mike Batzner, Mike Lang and Greg Graber, ends; Steve Murgerau will replace the retired Jesse and Chuck Rayner, guards; John Pahir, center and back-field men Gib Meisinger, Jim Purtell, Jay O'Connor, Mark Murphy and Tom Wagner.

Loures posted a 22-7 victory over Ripon in its non-conference opener Saturday night. ST. MARY SPRINGS: The Redjacks have eight lettermen back and new coach Tom Greifenkamp is expected to rely on a strong aerial attack to get Springs in the win column this season.

Jim Harbridge, senior quarterback, heads the lettermen. Harbridge was an all-conference honorable mention last season and completed 41 of 85 passes for 559 yards. Other letter winners include Mike Flasch, end; Rich Walgenbach, halfback; Ron Schmitz, end; John Heany, tackle; Jim Alber, tackle; Dave King, fullback and Paul Mielke, guard.

Springs suffered a 31-6 defeat at the hands of strong Francis Jordan of Milwaukee in its opener last Friday.

Erhard Party Expected to Retain Majority

Bundestag Election
Probably Will be Close, Influential

By CARL HARTMAN
BONN, Germany (AP) —
West Germany's election Sunday may bring some important changes in Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government — or even his own eclipse.

The fight is so close it could go any of several ways.

Erhard's Christian Democratic party will continue to be the biggest in the Bundestag, the important house of the West German Parliament. Its junior partner in the government, the Free Democratic party, is pre-tely certain to suffer losses.

If this coalition can go on ruling the country, even though weakened, West Germany's policies are likely to undergo little change.

Close to U. S.

The government would stand close with the United States for an integrated Atlantic alliance, but refuse any major aid in the Viet Nam War. It would try to reconcile French President Charles de Gaulle to his partners in the European Common Market, but with small prospect of success. It would seek for better relations to the Soviet Union and its East European satellites, but avoid official contact with the Communist government in East Germany.

The present coalition has a comfortable majority in the Bundestag: 308 votes to 190 for the Social Democrats of West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt.

If friends of De Gaulle make a good showing, Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder could lose his job. The result could be a leaning toward France and away from the United States.

'Grand Condition'

If the loss is heavy there will be pressure for what the Germans call a "grand coalition" between the Christian Democrats and the Socialists. Erhard has come out against this. He could hardly lead such a government, or even remain in the Cabinet.

The Social Democrats have not held national office for a generation.

A government with Socialists in it probably would try harder to find points of agreement with the Soviets, but it would still be anti-communist.

The Christian Democrats or the Socialists might surprise everyone and win enough seats to rule the country without political alliances.

One result that seems unlikely but can not be excluded: a minor success for the new right-wing group, the National Democrats. On its steering committee of 18 are 10 former Nazis.

Under law, a party that wins
4.9 per cent of the popular vote gets none of the 496 votes in the Bundestag. A party that wins 5 per cent of the voters gets about 25 seats. The National Democrats predict that it will successfully take the 5 per cent hurdle. If it does, the balance of power in Parliament may change.

The chancellor is elected by the Bundestag, not by the popular vote.

All Sofas Are Comfortable
When You Stand and Look At Them . .
The Trouble Doesn't Start Until You Sit Down!

Nearly everyone has been a victim of this deception. You stand and admire a luscious-looking sofa, and think how heavenly it will be to sit upon. So, you sit, and wow . . . it just doesn't fit and is downright uncomfortable. Not so with the sofas shown here. Everyone is beautiful to look at and each is constructed to give you that "just right for me" feeling. A feeling that will last indefinitely because the comfort is "built-in."

KROEHLER

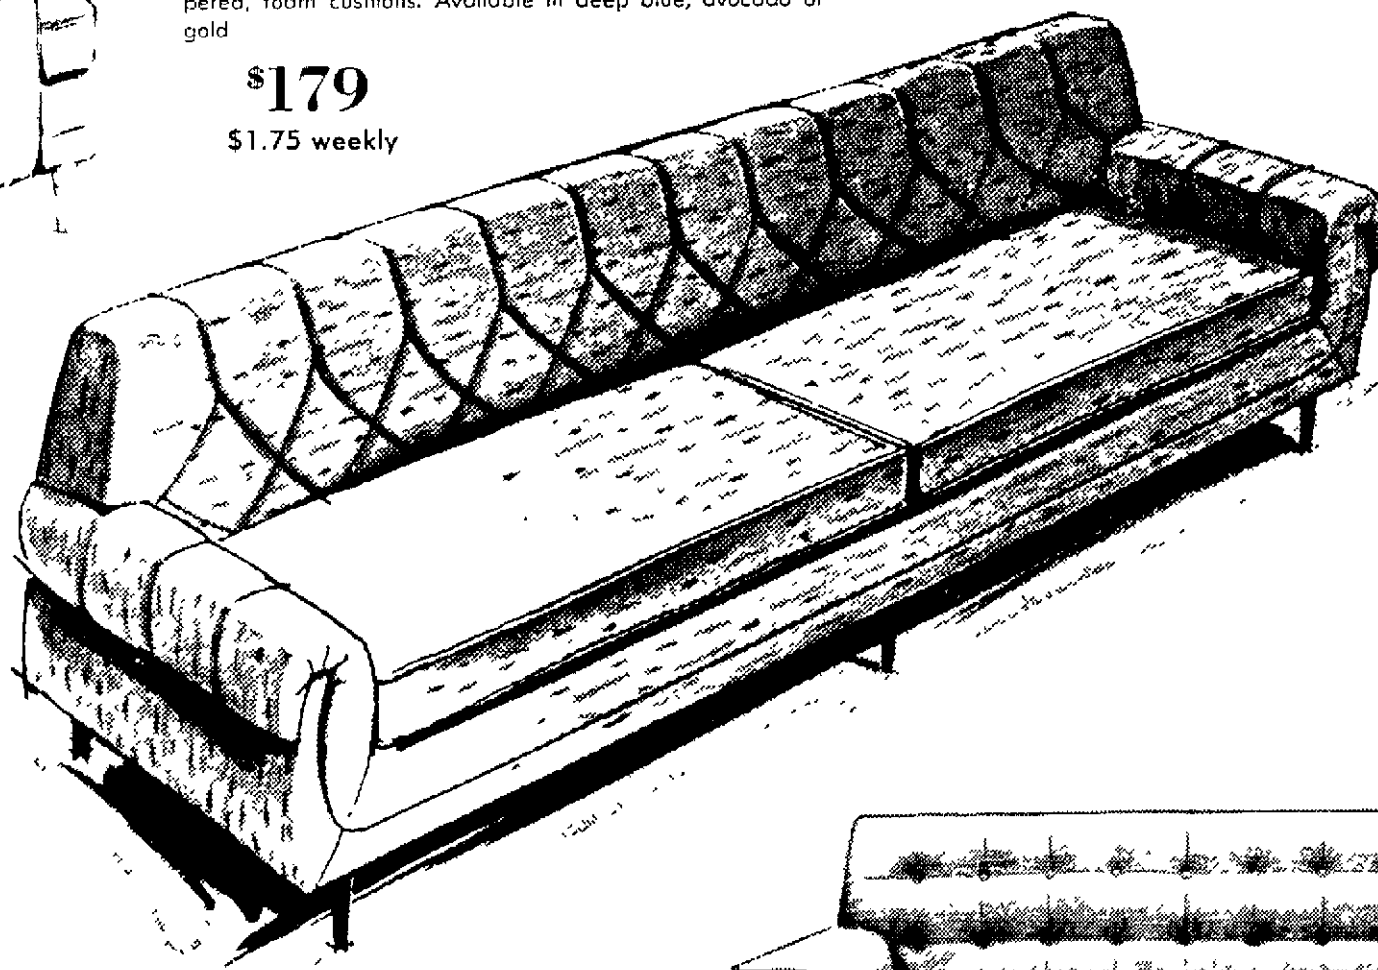

This sofa, with a new light-hearted approach to furniture fashion, is scaled for use in medium-sized areas, but with the same quality features as its larger brother. Reversible, zippered, foam cushions. Available in deep blue, avocado or gold.

$1.75 weekly

95 inches long, but just look at the light and airy look (and the price is extra light, too)

This is a big sofa (95" length) with clean, uncluttered lines that fit well in either modern or traditional decor. It has the smartness of a Lawson-type back with a chic double row of low-set buttons. This sturdy sofa is built for long years of service and exceptional comfort. The lovely, durable basket-weave cover is available in avocado, brown or gold.

$2 weekly

A sofa that is yours to treasure for years of comfort and pleasure. Fresh flowing lines offer a look of length and luxury. The diamond tufted back blends harmoniously with the soft roll arm and accented base treatment. And, everywhere you touch, comfortable foam reaches out to greet you. Nylon cover in a choice of brown or sage.

$1.50 Weekly

What a striking appearance this lengthy sofa will make in your living room. Note the attractive button tufted back, neatly seamed to give you a look of elegance. Cloud-soft foam cushions are zippered and reversible. Key-type arms add the final flattering touch. The exquisitely tailored basketweave cover is in a rich sage green.

Aid Streams Into Louisiana In Recovery From 'Betsy'

By BILL CRIDER
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Johnson pumped men, money and materials into hurricane-torn Louisiana today as the New Orleans coroner slashed his estimate of the probable death toll.

The White House dispatched $2 million as a token start toward helping rejuvenate the tragedy-stricken state, where 52 were known dead.

Plans were afoot to convert Louisiana's antipoverty program into a war on Hurricane Betsy. A million dollars was earmarked to put the Youth Corps to work cleaning up the debris.

Sixty freight carloads of surplus foods were sent by the Department of Agriculture.

Embarrassing Situation
Coroner Nicholas Chetta, confessing "an embarrassing situation," told newsmen late Monday night that he had been misled by poor communications into preparing for several hundred dead from downriver Plaquemines Parish.

Chetta said he finally reached the isolated parish by telephone at 10 p.m. and only then could Plaquemines authorities tell him the true story: only 20 — not 200 to 250 — bodies would be sent to New Orleans today for the coroner's care.

Chetta said he did not know how the rumors started about 200 to 250 deaths. "This was

ceptional Service Medal. Charles Conrad, who accompanied Cooper on the eight-day flight, awaits the President. (AP Wirephoto) probably promulgated by an unofficial official," the official said. Chetta said the information was relayed to him by amateur radio operators.

Amid the confusion of tangled communications, police reports of bodies found — running as high as 400 — piled into the coroner's cramped quarters.

Chetta, saying he could only "prepare for the worst," had marshalled cots and teams of workers to handle the expected deluge of bodies.

Hunt for Barge

The barge, with four tanks of the poisonous liquid welded to its hull, disappeared with scores of others when Betsy swept past Louisiana's capital city.

The cash damage toll from the destructive storm remains a matter of guesswork. Estimates range upward to a billion dollars.

S. B. Turman, head of Lykes Bros. Steamship Co., said ship damage alone may give Betsy the dubious distinction of being classed as the worst maritime disaster in peacetime history.

Red Cross Guess

The Red Cross raised its damage total to 1,029 homes destroyed, 26,352 with major damage.

Blast Wrecks Canadian Ship

MONTREAL (AP) — At least three seamen were missing after an explosion today aboard the Canada Steamship Line freighter Fort William, carrying a cargo of oil.

Capt. Samuel Wilkinson of Orillia, Ont., said there might be five men still aboard the burning ship.

The explosion occurred about 4:30 a.m., while the captain and about 20 crew members were sleeping aboard the vessel.

Firemen had to smash their way into the captain's cabin to free him. Fourteen of the crew members escaped, but with little if any clothing.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. B52 jet bombers blasted a suspected Viet Cong stronghold today in a raid about 20 miles north of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said.

Bombs from the eight-engine Strategic Air Command planes saturated a target south of Ben Cat, a district town in Binh Duong Province, the spokesman said. It was the 23rd announced strike in the war by the Guam-based bombers.

Due to security rules, the spokesman did not disclose further details.

Also in Binh Duong Province, government troops bolstered by air support threw back an attack by a big Viet Cong force 20 miles northwest of Saigon, a spokesman said.

Government losses were light and Viet Cong casualties were not known, he said. An estimated two battalions of guerrillas, possibly more than 1,000 men, battled against one government battalion.

5,000 Troops

Five thousand troops of the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry (airmobile) division came ashore, continuing the biggest troop landing of the war.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India declared today it had won its military objectives in two sectors of West Pakistan and authoritative sources said Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri was seriously considering a cessation of hostilities.

There was no assurance that Shastri and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, now in New Delhi, would be able to agree on a formula for halting the war, however. Nor was there any indication Pakistan was ready to talk peace.

Thant was reliably reported to have told U.N. workers in New Delhi that despite their differences, India and Pakistan in recent days have shown an interest in stopping the bloodshed that began Sept. 6.

Strong Backing

Thant, who has visited Pakistan, appears to have won strong backing from the big powers, especially the Soviet Union and the United States. Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev today called again for an end to the fighting. The United States is reported ready to cut off massive economic aid to the subcontinent until the fighting ceases.

Shastri met with leaders of his Congress party and ranking members of the opposition in Parliament. Many of them have been demanding a stepped up war against Pakistan.

Informed sources said when it was learned Shastri was considering a cessation of the fighting, opposition leaders demanded that in any agreement India refuse to reopen the Kashmir question and to hold territory it has seized in Pakistani Kashmir, where the fighting began. Pakistan demands a price for peace that a plebiscite be held in divided Kashmir to see whether the people prefer Indian or Pakistani rule.

One source said Shastri told the opposition he would bear in mind all aspects of the issue but that world opinion also had to be given consideration.

119 Delegates Leave on State Trade Mission

Knowles Expects To Boost Business By European Tour

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A delegation of 119 left Milwaukee Monday on a three-week trip to Europe that Gov. Warren P. Knowles predicted could lead to "significant expansion" of Wisconsin's exports.

The trade mission, second in two years, planned to fly to night to Holland after a briefing by officials in Washington.

"Wisconsin's exports are climbing and this trade development mission is designed to stimulate additional foreign trade," Knowles told an airport news conference. The governor personally is leading the mission of Wisconsin businessmen.

New Business

Knowles said a similar trip last year, headed by then Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, led to "some $500,000 in business acquired by Wisconsin industry in five European countries."

Norway and Spain, two nations not visited last year, have been added to repeat trips to Holland, Sweden, Italy and England in the tour which runs through Oct. 4.

Knowles said Wisconsin might meet Norway's desire for tool and die patterns and machinery for expanding industry.

The businessmen will hold receptions for foreign counterparts in the European countries. Many of the mission members have private appointments scheduled with European industries.

Knowles said he foresees "some real progress" in trade through the personal contacts.

Pope Opens Final Session at Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today opened the Vatican Ecumenical Council's final session, telling the Roman Catholic bishops he is going to the United Nations in New York to plead for peace "which in these days is being wounded and is bleeding."

The pontiff spoke at a ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica before nearly 2,500 of his bishops gathered from around the world for the fourth and concluding council session.

"May peace among men triumph — that peace, which in these days is being wounded and is bleeding between peoples so sorely in need of peace," said the Pope.

He said he was going before the U.N. General Assembly on Oct. 4 "to bring with respectful homage to the representatives of the nations assembled there a message of peace."

Major Topics

As for the ecumenical council itself, where conservative and progressive prelates are expected to clash over major topics like religious liberty and modern world problems, the Pope said:

"We have not touched (in the speech) on any of the themes which will be submitted to the examination of this assembly."

"Our silence has been deliberate. It is to be interpreted as a sign of our unwillingness to compromise, by any words of

Vance Speaks for Reorganization

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance said today a proposed reorganization of Army Reserve forces should be put into effect as soon as possible.

In a speech prepared for the Southern Governors Conference, Vance said the plan has been reviewed by Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, and that they recommend it be implemented as soon as possible.

Vance said he and his superior, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara agree wholeheartedly.

The plan to merge many organized Reserve units into the National Guard has been delayed and may be blocked by congressional action.

Scientist Indicted In Murder of Wife

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A Forsyth County grand jury returned a first degree murder indictment Monday against missile engineer Robert E. Porth, 56, in the death of his Milwaukee-born wife.

The indictment did not allege how Mrs. Porth was killed, but said she was slain in Forsyth County. Her body was found on a roadside cliff near Pulaski, Va., Aug. 14, one day after Porth said she left to drive to Milwaukee to visit friends.

Fischer Quints are Two

By GEORGE MOSES

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — A traveler driving into Aberdeen from the east sees a big billboard that reads:

"Welcome to Aberdeen, home of — Fischer 'quints'."

Not until he gets near the billboard can he see the rest of it: "Fischer 'quints'."

A lush field of corn blocks out this reference to Aberdeen's five most famous inhabitants, who reached their second birthday today.

The quint-eclipsing corn is an odd but apt symbol of the kind of adjustment this northeastern South Dakota city of 25,000 has made to the Fischers.

Become Famous

Aberdeen became a famous town the morning that James Andrew, Mary Margaret, Mary Magdalene, Mary Catherine and Mary Ann were born to Andrew J. Fischer, then a $76-a-week shipping clerk, and his wife, Mary Ann. St. Luke's, the red brick hospital that kept the youngsters alive in their first critical days, became the eye of a hurricane of scrambling newsmen.

There were those in Aberdeen, as there would be in any town, who saw fortune along with fame — an eager world beating a lucrative path to the quint's door.

But today, as the quint turn a healthy, happy and normal-as-

Private Party

Further, today's birthday party will be a private one, behind the doors of the 17-room, $100,000 ranch home a mile southwest of Aberdeen which the quint's made possible.

A year ago Aberdeen folks — most of whom have not to this day seen the quint's — might have wished for a public whoop-

Showers Tonight;

Fox End Wednesday

Fox Cities — Cloudy with showers and a few thunder-showers tonight, ending early Wednesday. Rather windy and little change in temperature.

Low tonight near 56 degrees, high Wednesday, near 66 degrees. Southerly winds shifting to westerly Wednesday.

Appleton — Observations at 10 a.m. Temperature: high, 74; low, 52. Wind, eight miles per hour out of the east-southeast. Barometric pressure, 30.07 and holding steady. Humidity, 76. Dewpoint, 49. Skies, cloudy. Precipitation, .50. Temperature, 54.

Sun sets at 7:06 p.m., rises Wednesday at 6:32 a.m. Moon rises tonight at 9:02 p.m. Saturn is now the brightest star in the southern sky at midnight.

Not on Display
The four girls and their brother have never been put on public display. Mrs. Fischer occasionally takes them along when she does an errand downtown, but it's a rare sight, and they stay in the car.

A tourist who wants to get as close as he can — and several do — can take a paved highway half a mile south of Aberdeen, and turn west on a gravel road. The two-story, red and cream Fischer home is easy to spot because no South Dakota farmer would build one that big.

Not far off the highway, it is surrounded by wire fencing and bristles with "Private property — No trespassing" signs. If sightseers don't get the point, there are signs on the road which read, "No parking on highway."

Clintonville Curlers Plan For Season

CLINTONVILLE — Members of the Clintonville Curling Club who plan to participate in the mixed curling this season will have a dinner meeting Oct. 5 at the Clintonville Riverside Golf Clubhouse to prepare the season's schedule.

Curlers may golf prior to the family style dinner and informal meeting. Members are asked to complete the information requested in a letter sent out last weekend concerning the mixed curling.

A committee meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Otto recently to discuss the plans for the mixed curling for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Otto and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Arndt were named co-chairmen and members are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Loberg and Mr. and Mrs. Arlyn Sasse.

Disorderly Conduct Charges Net Fines for Two in Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Two persons pleaded guilty Monday to charges of disorderly conduct when they appeared before Municipal Justice Nathan Wiese.

Arturo Sanchez, 23, Laredo, Texas, and Miss Jane Miller, 18, rural Stevens Point, were arrested and held for investigation after they came to the Clintonville police department shortly after 8 a.m. Monday and reported they were runaways.

New London Seeks To Speed Up Plan

State Development Unit Asked To Help on Overdue Report

NEW LONDON — The City Planning Commission recommended Monday that the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development be contacted and asked to help speed up issuance of a final draft of the New London planning report being prepared by a Chicago firm.

The firm, Candeb, Fleissig and Associates, had said in August, 1964, that the finished report would be available in six weeks, but several corrections have since been made to the plan, causing postponement of both the final presentation and scheduling of a public hearing.

C. J. Laux, commission member, said the action followed a number of complaints on the tardiness of the report and the settling of the hearing.

To Name Committee

Mayor Wilmer Schlafer later this week is expected to name a committee to study the possibility of the city's putting in a bid for a state school for boys to be built in the northern part of the state.

Schlafer said the school was sought by several cities for the economic benefits it would give the area in which it is constructed.

Reapportionment of New London's four Waupaca County wards will be studied at the Monday meeting of the city committee, board of public works and City Atty. S. W. Krastue to work on the ordinance, according to Emil Gehrke, committee member.

Adopt 3 Plans

A map showing the distribution of the city's population has been completed but no formal recommendations have been prepared so far, Gehrke said. Street.

Seymour Council Approves Street, Curb, Gutter Work

Extension of City's Sewerage Facilities Authorized by Solons

SEYMOUR — The city council Tuesday night approved several street, water and curb and gutter projects as part of this year's public works program.

The council approved extension of water and sewer service to lots owned by Robert Wolk, Roy Puls and Associates on Mill Street between Seymour and Pearl streets.

It also authorized Public Works Supt. Earl Gosse to prepare the street for curb and gutters which will be installed next year.

Curb and gutter for the R. G. Stathas property on S. Ivory Street was approved. The council earlier had approved the installation of the facilities for the west side of the Herbert Wendt Drive-In property from the corner of State 54 and Ivory Street.

The Stathas property is located adjacent to the north end of the Wendt property. J. N. Daul, Kaukauna contractor who completed other curb and gutter work in the city, has been hired.

Assessment Payments

Payment of assessments has been set for Oct. 1.

Gosse reported that sewer and water facilities on the E. Factory Street extension to the Seymour Transfer Lines property should be completed this week. Excavation for the street will start and the gravel fill

Start Work on Waupaca Store

Facility to Cost $25,000; Will be Ready in December

WAUPACA — Ground was broken today for construction of a $25,000 addition to Glen's Super Market at Badger and Washington streets.

Glen Duke, owner-operator, said construction should be completed in mid-December. The store will have 7,200 square feet of service area.

General construction is being done by the Anderson Construction Co., Waupaca. The addition will be the same as the present building, a cement block exterior with open finished beams on the interior.

Wide Aisles

Duke said the reason for the addition is to provide wider aisles and more room for more convenient shopping. Also included in the planned construction is a 1,600-square-foot storage area.

The addition will be built north of the present building on Washington Street and will add about $12,000 in inventory to the present merchandise offerings, Duke said.

Waupaca County Host to Promenade

NEW LONDON — Final plans for the north sectional promenade, here Oct. 17, will be made when the Waupaca County 40th holds its monthly promenade at the Grand View Supper Club in Fremont at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Recommended a sub-division ordinance be adopted governing further developments, including city approval of plats, payments for improvements and sewerage disposal regulations. Mayor Gehrke named the judicial committee, board of public works and City Atty. S. W. Krastue to work on the ordinance.

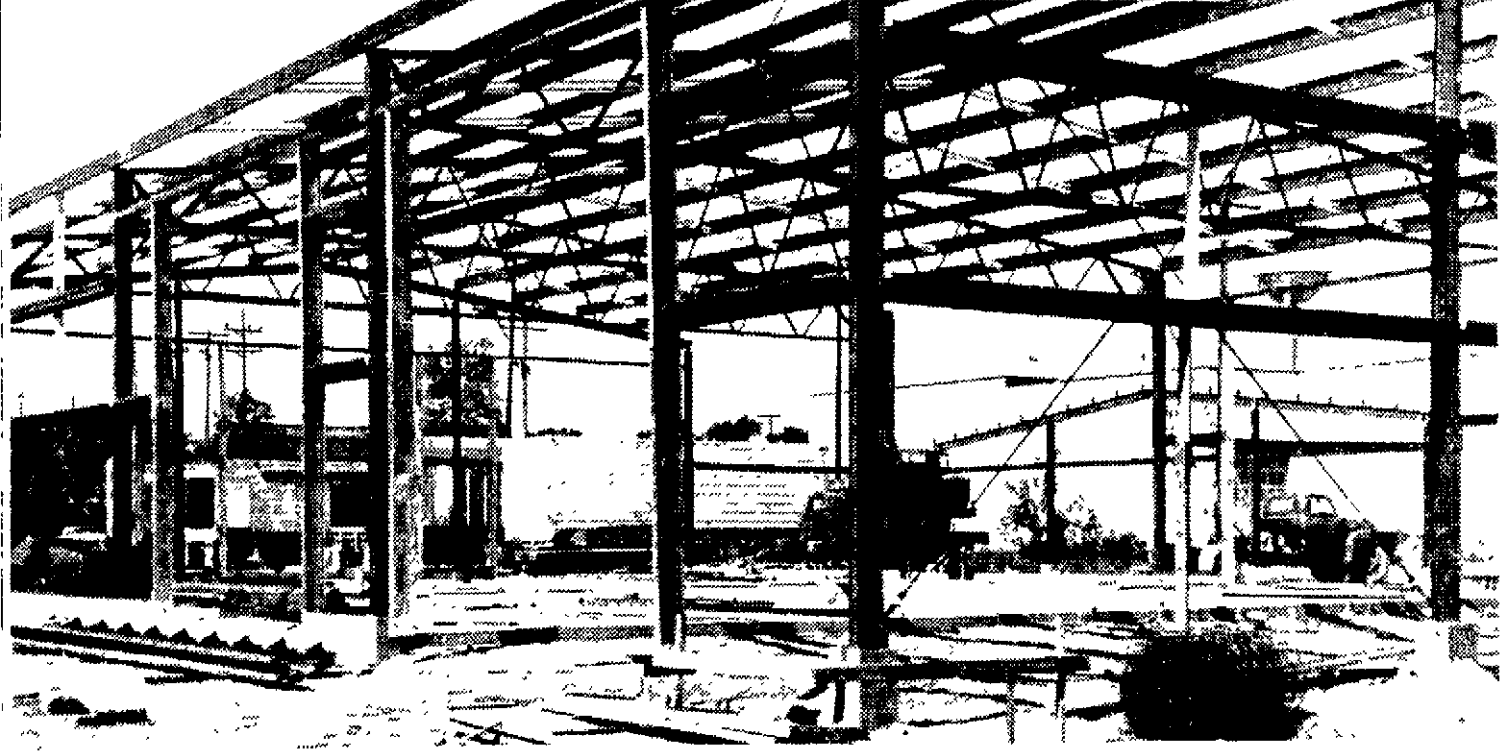

Recommended the city put a mat surface on five blocks of Wyman Street between Wolf River Avenue and Pine Street and on S. Pearl Street between Beacon Avenue and Quincy Street.

From Log Cabin to $102,000 Edifice

BEAR CREEK — A small log structure built with loving care back to the time the first Lutheran missionaries came to the area, is being replaced by a new $102,000 brick and stone edifice dedicated Dec. 11, 1960.

It was in this more imposing church building that the descendants of many of the pioneer German families met Sunday with others of the 315-member congregation to commemorate the official organization of their church and to celebrate its 90th anniversary.

90-Year-Old Bear Creek Congregation

When this circuit-riding romantic history today, going to trousers, and proceeding to their log cabin doors to inform them that he would begin little log church had been built by the men of the congregation, the youngest child to his shoulder and led his broad across creek members meant a hike of five or six miles and even farther him, strategically placing each child in line according to their ages and consequent responsibility. Neighboring families soon joined each other in the early Sunday morning jaunt. Before long, the first welcoming "halloo" turned to chatter and then to hymn singing to help pass the time and shorten the distance.

The church ceased to be a preaching station on the circuit in 1875 when the Rev. J. J. Walker came to organize the congregation. The work of organizing officially was done by Turn to Page 3, Col. 3

City of Waupaca Plan Cuts Board Membership to Four

Third Ward Combined With Second

WAUPACA — A reapportionment plan reducing the city of Waupaca's county board representatives from five supervisors to four was drafted Monday night by a three-man committee.

The plan, which combined the Second and Third Ward into one supervisory district, will be presented to the county board Sept. 27.

According to board instructions, supervisory districts were to be formed with a population of approximately 1,000 persons.

As proposed, the city plan has 869 in the First Ward, 1,159 in the combination of the Second and Third wards, 886 in the Fourth Ward, and 1,113 in the Fifth Ward. The committee, appointed by Mayor Lloyd Matheson, included the mayor, Duncan Campbell and Douglas Johnson.

Geographic Restrictions

The population of the combined district was not the only reason for the combination. The future growth of each is somewhat restricted. The Third is confined by light and heavy industry to the north and west and the Second is held in by light industry and the Waupaca River.

The Second Ward, located in the east portion of the city, also is confined by the high school athletic fields. The Third Ward to the north, north-east and north-west is confined by the railroad tracks.

Outagamie Surplus

Government Will Buy Cabbage

WASHINGTON — The government will buy for institutional use a portion of the fresh green cabbage surplus held by producers in Outagamie County, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, (D-Wis.) has announced.

The unusually large crop, which has resulted from ideal cabbage growing conditions in the northeastern Wisconsin, is estimated at 2,000 tons more than can be moved commercially to sauerkraut canners, grocery wholesalers and other outlets. The estimate was made following a weekend survey.

Nelson urged the government to purchase after he was contacted by the Outagamie County Vegetable Growers Association.

Prompt Action

He told federal officials that prompt action was essential because warmer weather could cause heavy losses through spoilage.

The Department of Agriculture was the first agency to respond favorably to Nelson's request for surplus commodities purchases. Cabbage purchased under this program is used for school lunches.

Nelson also has asked the General Services Administration and the Army, Navy, and Air Force to purchase some of the surplus Wisconsin cabbage. The GSA purchases for government cafeterias and welfare institutions.

Rift Over Pay Plan Halts Neopit Mill

Misunderstanding Resolved; Men Back on Jobs After Brief Layoff

NEOPIT — A work stoppage at the Menominee Enterprises lumber mill here Monday was blamed on a misunderstanding of the union contract in a joint statement issued by Menominee Enterprises and the local union.

Four men working on the "Green Train", a conveyor which carries graded lumber into the yard for piling left the job because their wages fell below what they anticipated they would receive when they contracted to work on an incentive plan, according to George Kenote, Menominee Enterprises manager.

This unauthorized walk-off, Kenote claimed, caused the entire mill to shut down when production was interrupted and a strike was in process. The mill was completely shut down for less than 10 hours, according to Kenote, but the boilers were kept going.

General Meeting

After the walkoff Monday morning, it was announced that there would be a general meeting at the St. Anthony gymnasium. But this meeting was headed off when Enterprises and union officials met about 1 p.m. Shortly after 2 p.m., Kenote announced, "The management of Menominee Enterprises and the union have resolved the issues of misunderstanding in the contract and the night shift is to report for work at 5 p.m."

Kenote said the incentive play with which the four employees were dissatisfied was initiated at the suggestion or the employees in an effort to allow them to make money over their base rate, which they did for the first two weeks of the experiment.

187 juniors will be tested at the period. But then, because of American Legion Club and VFW operational problems in the club, Thursday and Friday the 205 freshman will take the tests, money was not forthcoming, the men left the job, prompting the shutdown. He said, however, Educational Development would require about 1½ days for each class and the Hammond-Nelson base pay.

Union, Firm Report Conflict On Negotiations

Labor Leaders at Oshkosh Plant Deny Receiving Request

OSHKOSH — Union officials this morning said they had not received any request for a meeting with management on Wednesday although a management spokesman Monday said the striking Local No. 1108 of the United Auto Workers and The Leach Co. management would meet Wednesday to discuss the strike. Bernard Clavette, president of the UAW local which went on strike last Wednesday, said neither he nor the union's international officials, had received a request for a meeting. The union's president said the union would meet with the company at any time but that the meeting should be on neutral grounds. The company's law firm announced Monday a meeting had been called between management and union representatives for 10 a.m. Wednesday at The Leach Co. plant office. Clavette said he counted 31 non-striking production workers reporting for work this morning and stated there were about 100 pickets on the picket line at the plant driveway entrance. He said the pickets are taking turns at being at the plant gate when the non-striking employees come to work and when they leave the plant, rather than have all the strikers at the gate at one time.

Police at Plant Oshkosh and Winnebago County police were joined by Neenah and Menasha police Monday afternoon as the non-striking employees left the plant. About 70 policemen were at the scene in order to prevent any disorders such as the one which erupted in the morning when the non-striking employees came to work.

There were no incidents Monday afternoon nor any early this morning when the non-striking employees came to work. Police formed a path for the employees to enter the plant on both occasions. One union picket said that those non-striking employees who were reporting for work were those who were on a regular pay basis while the others are on a piece-work basis. This picket said that one of the issues involved was the pay scale for those on piece-work. He said he stood to lose 90 cents an hour through the new incentive scale suggested by the company.

Bear Creek Lutherans Note 90th Anniversary

Oct. 11, 1875, with 28 charter members accepting the newly drawn constitution. The following Dec. 4 the congregation elected its first officers. They included Carl Klemm, Gottlieb Roesler, August Schoepke and Carl Schroeder. Schroeder served the congregation as secretary and Klemm as treasurer.

New Church in 1882

Within 10 years of its official churchdom, the congregation was bursting the seams of the log church. The time had come to consider a larger structure. The congregation's second church of brick was built across the road in 1882 under the stewardship of the three-member building committee composed of founders Schoepke, Roesler and Klemm.

Most of the hauling and rough work again was done by church members. The bricks were hauled from Northport and the cost of the building was reported to be exactly $1,298.31.

Before that decade had ended, Trinity Church also had a parsonage, built at a cost of $740.

After several remodeling projects through the years to improve the church property, plans were formulated for the new church building under the pastorate of the Rev. Walter Schiedler. Once again, in the tradition of those German pioneers, members of the modern congregation donated generously of their time, labor and articles of equipment to assist in the building of their community church. At the present time there is about $20,000 indebtedness left on this newest structure.

Noted Pastors Pastors who have served the church since the days of the circuit riders and the Rev. Mr. Walker include the Rev. R. Jank, who served the congregation for seven years; the Rev. D. Jaeger, 1896-1923; the Rev. R. Pautz of Clintonville as interim pastor until the Rev. R. Malotky came in 1923 and stayed for 20 years; the Rev. Carl Hoeh, who served for nine years; the Rev. John Pingel, two years; the Rev. Mrs. Schiedler, who served from 1954 to 1962.

The Rev. Carl Ehrfurth is the present pastor, succeeding Pastor Schiedler.

Parochial Education From the earliest days, parents recognized the need for religious training for their children. The first school was held in the log church. When that was razed, the school room moved to the second floor of the parsonage.

Records show that school began in late October and continued until Palm Sunday. The pastor's wife took over the chores of teaching the children when her husband was busy with parish work. School in those early days was held four half-days a week and, since there was no law compelling the children to learn in the English language, the work was taught in German. This was easier, since many of the settlers were learning the language of their new country themselves and German was the first language in the home.

As the years went on, a brick school was built and Trinity pastors taught classes until 1907 when teachers and students preparing for the ministry took over the educational duties.

The parochial school changed its location several times, going into the vacated Nicholson school building for many years. The congregation voted to close its parochial school in 1960. Since then a Sunday School has been in session each week at Trinity Church.

Another interesting highlight of this congregation's long history was its decision to include the use of the English language in its services. This was during the tenure of the Rev. Mr. Jaeger, the years which also marked the offshoot beginning of the Grace Lutheran congregation in Bear Creek Village and the withdrawal of the Symco group to form its own congregation.

In Missouri Synod Trinity Lutheran Church has been affiliated with the Missouri Synod since 1925. Albert Gonnell was the first lay delegate to be sent that year to the synod convention.

The Trinity Lutheran Ladies Aid, organized in 1911, had a Roy Hansen, Orin Stevenson forerunning women's group that dates back to 1897 or even earlier. Church records show that the women of the congregation always have taken an active part in the church and before the turn of the century raised funds to purchase the communion ware. Five Hurt in 3-Car Crash

Auto Goes Through Stop Sign North Of Stephansville

Five persons were hospitalized in Appleton following a three-car accident at 7:15 a.m. today at State 76 and County Trunk S, just north of Stephansville.

Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital was Henry Emmers, 77, 2000 E. John St., Appleton, who received a lacerated left hand and possible internal injuries. Taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital were Mary Diermeier, 61, route 2, Shiocton, with a lacerated right leg; Florence Bentle, 42, route 1, Hortonville, with a fractured right ankle and bruises; Joanne Kemke, 20, route 2, Shiocton, with a scalp laceration and bruises; and Ruth B. Peters, 56, route 2, Black Creek, with a bruised knee and elbow and neck injuries.

Cline and Hanson Ambulance of New London transported some of the injured.

Emmers went through a stop sign as he was traveling east on County Trunk S, according to Outagamie County traffic police. He struck the Peters car which was southbound on State 76, and the Peters car struck the left front fender of a northbound auto driven by Carl Van Straten, 27, route 1, Shiocton.

All of the injured except Emmers were in the Peters car, police said. Estimated damage to the Emmers car was $1,000, the Peters car $500 and the Van Straten vehicle, $50.

A $113,200 grant, plus $56,000 in local contributions, will finance preparation of plans for the growth of Grand Rapids, Nekeosha, Port Edwards, Saratoga, Wisconsin Rapids and the south Wood County area.

A similar plan will be put into effect for the village of Oregon in Dane County through a $440 grant, plus $220 in local funds.

Offense, Defense Weak

Waupaca High Coach Praises Senior Tackle

WAUPACA — Harlan Dietz, tilt. The team lost seven yards senior two-way tackle for the Comet football team was praised by Coach Jim Mohr for his work in the Comets 26-0 loss Friday to Stevens Point.

Mohr, speaking at the first meeting of the Downtown Coaches Club Monday, said Dietz displayed a good charge on defense and blocked "real well" on offense. Prior to this season Dietz played only on defense.

The team as a whole though, Mohr said, was weak on offense and defense, gaining only 58 yards in the first non-conference game.

Some State Cities Lack Postmaster For Many Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the comment that "no child under 12 years of age in Loyal, Wis., has ever seen his own postmaster," Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., introduced legislation Monday to speed up and improve postmaster appointments by removing them from politics.

Byrnes said that a survey by the Civil Service Commission revealed, among other things, that the postmastership at Loyal, a Clark County community of about 1,200 population, became vacant in February of 1953 and still is vacant.

"Almost two-thirds of the 75 vacancies in Wisconsin have existed for more than a year," Byrnes said. "Almost a third are over two years old. Twelve offices have been without a permanent postmaster for three or more years, including—besides Loyal — two which have been vacant for over six years, Bristol and Richfield."

Byrnes noted that Sturgeon Bay, "which became vacant almost two years ago, as yet doesn't have even an acting postmaster."

LBJ Souvenir Trade Booming In Ranch Area

6-Ounce Bottle of Murky Water Sells as 'Presidential Nectar'

By JACK KEEVER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — You can buy a 6-ounce bottle of murky water for 39 cents.

The liquid is labeled "Presidential Nectar" and it comes from a nearby lake called Lyndon B. Johnson, a name that means tourist dollars around here. For this is the "President's Country," where the LBJ brand has the Midas touch.

There are T-shirts with Lyndon B. Johnson this or that at the souvenir stands and corner drug stores.

Rocks from the LBJ ranch near Stonewall are going for 29 cents apiece. Land prices in the 80-mile stretch of central Texas that's considered Lyndon's Land are rising. So is attendance in the area's parks and campsites.

And for $1 you can become the President's neighbor. That's the price of one square inch of land in Bluebonnet Acres, which adjoins Johnson's 450-acre ranch.

Cash Keeps Coming

The tourists keep pouring in, the cash registers keep ringing and businessmen keep smiling.

Said one service station operator in Fredericksburg: "If we get too much more business, we won't be able to handle it."

Motorists are especially attracted to Ranch Road 1, a four-mile loop which passes 200 yards from the President's ranch house. Parents and kids strain to get a glimpse of Johnson himself on one of his frequent weekend trips home. The odds are they won't. The Secret Service now seals off the road when the President returns to the ranch.

One Restaurant

In Stonewall's only restaurant, owner Kemitt Kahne, who has worked for Johnson as a laborer and a vote-getter, watched the tourists file in.

"The important thing was to get Lyndon elected," he said. But he adds, "things should be good from now on."

Kahne, like most businessmen in the President's Country, thinks the LBJ tourist boom is permanent.

At Austin, the state capital, contractor Bill Youngblood terms the tourist potential of LBJ tremendous. He noted that between 8 and 10 million people visited former President John F. Kennedy's summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass., in 1963.

Tom Perkins, a Chamber of Commerce staffer in Austin, said, "the best indication of the increase of tourism is motel occupancy." He said at least two major motel chains are looking over Austin as another possible site.

Some Discord

The boom hasn't come with complete harmony, though. Johnson City and Stonewall have a low-key feud going over which town can claim the President as its "own."

About a month after Johnson became President, Johnson City erected a large sign reading "Welcome to Johnson City, Home Town of Lyndon B. Johnson."

A tourist information center followed quickly. Then merchants in the town, population 700, began passing out car bumper stickers with the President's name.

At Stonewall, population 200, this sign meets motorists on U.S. 290: "Peach Center of Texas, Home L.B.J."

Johnson was born near Stonewall and went to school at Albert first, but then finished high school at Johnson City. His parents had a home at Johnson City, which was named for ancestors.

'Big Man'

Fredericksburg got into the argument when its newspaper, The Standard, said, "we see no reason for all the fuss and flurry. Personally, we think President Johnson is a big enough man to belong to all three of our communities."

While some haggling goes on, buildings go up.

Several other commercial ventures have yet to see a profit. At Stonewall, for instance, a community center with a restaurant, ballroom and lounge has never left the planning stage.

And a motel and tourist center proposed for the LBJ ranch area were dropped last year when the State Parks and Wildlife Commission designated 240 acres of farm and ranch land as Lyndon B. Johnson State Park.

Secret of Success
Cats Can be Trained — To Do What They Want
By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There is a lot of nonsense abroad about cats.
For example, when you get a cat for the first time, all your friends who are cat lovers, warn you sagely, "Cats are a lot different from dogs. You can train a dog, but you can't train a cat."
This is ridiculous. Any domestic animal can be trained. The difference is only one of degree.
With dogs you simply decide what you want them to do, and then teach them to do it. With cats you work the other way. You find out what they want to do, and then don't bother trying to teach them anything else. The system is infallible.
As a result of applying this theory, I feel that the cat in our house, Lady Dottie, is perfectly tamed.
At first I made the mistake of trying to train Lady Dottie as if she were a dog. For one thing I set out to teach her to stay out of the way.
What I failed to realize was that she didn't want to stay out of the way; the social needs of her nature required just the opposite — that she get in the way of people. It was her way of stressing her importance.
By capitalizing on this rudimentary discovery, I have successfully trained Lady Dottie so that she is now in the way at all times.
If I want to sit on the sofa, she is there. If I want to sit in the only decent easy chair that has a reading lamp by it, she is there. If I want to go to bed, she has beat me to it. If I want to go to the bathroom — well, why should I admit that I am the one who has to share his bathroom with a cat?
Thorough Job
Friends who visit us sometimes say, "How ever do you put up with Lady Dottie? She's always in the way."
They just fail to realize what a thorough job of training I have done on her.
Teaching Lady Dottie to talk was, I admit, a lot of trouble.
"Can you say meow?" I asked her at least 10,000 times without result. Well, of course, she could her time proudly repeating her single syllabled vocabulary.
Finally, the reason dawned on me. Lady Dottie is a modest cat, and doesn't like to use the personal pronoun which starts the word meow.
"Can you say ow?" I asked her.
"Ow, ow, ow, ow, ow, ow," she replied eagerly. Now when I am alone she spends most of her time proudly repeating her single syllabled vocabulary.
"Ow, ow, ow, ow."
But if a visitor comes in and I inquire, "Lady Dottie, can you say ow?" she claims up. She looks at me as if I were an idiot.
As soon as the visitor leaves, Lady Dottie comes over, rubs against my legs, and starts talking her head off. "Ow, ow, ow, ow, ow, ow."

Annexation and Appleton

Two news stories in Sunday's Post-Crescent pinpoint the necessity for the City of Appleton to do some immediate and serious thinking about expansion of municipal boundary lines. The Menasha Common Council voted unanimously to annex 183.6 acres in the Town of Menasha, including a strip of land running north to within half a mile of the Appleton city limits. Another story pictured the rapid growth of West College Avenue in the Town of Grand Chute as a retail and commercial area, with property values now running as high as $25,000 an acre.

The absolute necessity for the City of Menasha to expand northward to acquire industrial building sites had become apparent in the last few years. There was bitter opposition from the township, and Saturday's annexation will probably face challenge in the courts. But so far the City of Appleton has not expressed any public concern about the matter.

State Planner Walter Johnson advised against the annexation as being "against the public interest." One of the points he raised in opposition was that northern sections of the annexed area were more closely related to Appleton "by social and shopping customs." In other words Johnson was saying that if northern areas of the town are to be annexed to nearby cities, it is more logical that the northern section of the town be annexed to Appleton.

Mr. Proxmire's Troubles

For the second time in recent years, Senator William Proxmire with a flourish of publicity has written personal checks in favor of the United States Treasury as reimbursement for salaries paid which he obviously felt may make him susceptible to criticism.

Earlier the senior senator of Wisconsin paid a substantial sum to indemnify the treasury for the comparatively high salary paid out to one of his assistants who was ostensibly employed full-time, but who had been publicized as being a full-time graduate student at the University of Wisconsin. Perhaps he was deceived when he employed that aide. Perhaps he felt that the price he paid to make good the salary paid out to his man was a reasonable one for the silencing of his voluble critics at that time. In any event, the device was successful. The issue, whatever its merits, dropped out of public discussion.

The new episode is different. A son and a stepdaughter are involved this time. One worked for the Post Office Department, which is already under fire for having employed many congressional proteges during the last summer season under the guise of collaborating in the anti-poverty campaign. The second child worked for the U.S. Park Service. It is difficult to believe that these young children obtained and held these jobs for a period of many weeks without the knowledge of their father.

The Costs of Delinquency

Even in relatively well behaved Wisconsin, which tends to view with horror the tales of delinquency in some of the big cities of the country, the rate of juvenile delinquency is rising. Some increase in the number of delinquents is inevitable, all other factors being equal, as a result of the post-war bulge in the general birth rate. But the experts inform us that the ratio of boys and girls getting into difficulties with the law is also rising perceptibly, with the result that our correctional schools are crowded and the average length of stay there has been reduced in order to accommodate the flow of new admissions.

Yet there is relatively little public awareness of the enormous financial costs of these social problems of our times. An episode at the most recent meeting of the State Building Commission in Madison, therefore, may be usefully illuminating.

The state corrections division brought in a proposal for the construction of a new, third institution for the care and training of male juvenile delinquents. It reported that the capital cost, almost all of which will be borrowed and will represent interest charges over a 30 year period as well as principal payments, will be $5,948,000.

For most of us accustomed to contemplating local public institution costs that is a formidable figure indeed. But it becomes even more formidable when it is remembered that the department proposes

Once again we are seeing in this instance the lack of prior planning and coordination as far as the future of the Town of Menasha is concerned. Town officials over the years have been fighting any move toward annexation, despite the hard fact that the City of Menasha had to expand to survive and the only direction in which it could expand was northerly.

When this particular annexation is finally settled, it would be well for officials of the town and the cities of Menasha and Appleton to sit down around the table and discuss a sensible approach to the future of the township. It is also quite obvious that eventually certain northern areas of the town will join the City of Appleton.

On West College Avenue Appleton watches with some envy while extensive retail and commercial development takes place which could not be accommodated within the city for lack of acreage. Real estate experts predict that West Wisconsin is in for similar development, and one of the city's expanding industries has already located there.

It is simple today through hindsight to say that annexation moves in that area should have been initiated before this development took place. But it may not yet be too late for the city to interest the firms who have located there in the municipal services Appleton can provide.

It is also unlikely that the government personnel officers who placed them were unaware of their prestigious family political connections. One of the children, indeed, evidently had an endorsement from a Proxmire colleague in the Congress, Wisconsin's Senator Nelson, when she asked for work in the Park Service.

Thus we are puzzled about the entire incident. If Sen. Proxmire is so concerned about public appearances that he is willing to dig into his private bank account for some hundreds of dollars, his constituents will believe that he should have recognized the impropriety in the first instance.

As a Madison editor who usually finds it difficult to find anything wrong in the Proxmire performance has put it, if the original Campanini arrangement in the senator's office was legitimate, he had no obligation to repay the salary. If it was not legitimate, he should not have been hired. The senator runs the risk, as we see it, of a similar conclusion among his home state voters on the question of putting his children to work during the summer holidays. Next summer, we would speculate, he will find seasonal employment for them in private enterprise. That should not be difficult for a man of his rank and extensive acquaintance. He has probably clasped the hands of half the people in Wisconsin during his diligent stumping career.

If our elementary arithmetic is equal to the occasion, that is the equivalent of a capital cost of about $20,700 per boy, or more relevantly, about the cost of a modern home for the typical family of five or six in this section of the state.

Yet that is only part of the story. The handsome figure represents capital investment only. The department will also want, it related, about $1,252,000 a year to operate the new school. That works out to around $4,360 a year per inmate, or very nearly the equivalent of the average annual earnings of the typical inhabitant of Wisconsin who is gainfully employed and paying taxes.

Such data, we would guess, is sobering to the taxpayer down in the ranks. He may wonder, with Sen. Chester Dempsey of the commission, for example, why we must have a separate school for 287 boys. Why not expand the existing facilities in the Kettle Moraine forest, which were described only a few years ago as indefinitely expandable, and which would permit more efficient use of much of the administrative staff, teachers, and other specialists, as well as food facilities, lighting, heating and other utility installations? Thus far there has not been offered a convincing answer. Given the aspects of pork barrelling already indicated, we hope Sen. Dempsey will press his demand for a thorough study of the cost differences between a new institution and an enlargement of the existing school.

a few lying proffers of the offices of returned soldiers — these make up the "Union Platform" of Wisconsin! Not a word have they to say on the oppressive tariff system fastened upon us by New England ismatists; not a whimper about corrupt and tyrannical reign of espionage inaugurated by the villainous "Infernal" Revenue Law; not one utterance in sympathy in behalf of a restored Union of free and equal states; not a lisp in behalf of the restoration of the freeman's birth-right, the Writ of Habeas Corpus; and, after having perjured its very soul for Negroidom, it meantly dodged the question of giving the Negro the right to vote in Wisconsin! No wonder the Milwaukee Sentinel speaks most contemptuously of the "shuffling, indecisive, and cowardly declaration of want of principles by the Convention." No wonder the Racine Jour-

British Public Opinion Against India In Dispute With Pakistan

BY MAX FREEDMAN

LONDON—In London, unlike Washington, there is no anxious uncertainty about the Indian-Pakistani conflict. The verdict has gone plainly against India. That is true to a startling degree in the press, in comments by university scholars, and in the private comments of government officials. This reaction is so different from the opinions expressed in Washington that it requires some careful explanation.

There is less anger at India than there is a sense of hurt bewilderment. The British people expected India to behave with a restraint and maturity worthy of its great cultural traditions. Instead, there has been a spirit of glee in New Delhi at the approach of war that has deeply surprised and offended British opinion. What is happening in New Delhi has been compared to the mood of Berlin on the eve of the war in 1914. This criticism comes not from India's opponents but from old and tested friends. That is one measure of the degree of revulsion that has overtaken British opinion.

The verdict would have been more cautious and more generous if India had said it was going to war with a heavy heart. There has instead been a disturbing note of relief and pride running through India's comment, as if at last it can strike back at a hated foe, regardless of where the blame rests in the present dispute.

EQUALITY TO BLAME

No longer is there a measured and objective attempt to assign the blame for aggression. There is overwhelming agreement that both India and Pakistan are to blame; that both acted with reckless and obstinate folly over a period of years; and that both are equally guilty of aggression, depending on how far you are ready to push back the origins of the Kashmir crisis. In these circumstances, the mood is bitter against India for having refused to be more reasonable about Kashmir in the past and for having deliberately widened the fighting by its own attacks on Pakistan's territory.

Nowhere is the revulsion more marked than in the revised estimates of Nehru's career. It is being said on all sides that Nehru was wrong on Kashmir and wrong on China—two enduring lapses from greatness. Nehru alone had the personal stature and the national following to persuade India to accept a graceful and sensible compromise. Instead, he made Kashmir a defiant symbol of discord in his life and bequeathed it as a flaming symbol of armed antagonism between two peoples.

I am reporting this British reaction in such stark detail even though I do not agree with it. I think the British reaction is wrong, is certainly superficial, and may be giving definite encouragement to Pakistan. But this reaction, whether right or wrong, is having the most immediate and profound effects on British policy.

WILSON APPLIES PRES-SURE

For it is enabling Prime Minister Wilson to bring heavy and continuous pressure on India to end the fighting, to give securities of good behavior for the future, and to remove Kashmir at long last from the agenda of controversy.

Like other members of the Labor Party, the prime minister has a deep intellectual and emotional commitment to India. The Labor Party may talk all it wants about being absolutely neutral in this quarrel between two commonwealth members. No one believes it. The Labor Party cannot rid itself of the conviction that India, rather than Pakistan, was responsible for the overthrow of British rule and the granting of independence to the entire subcontinent. For every intellectual and personal tie with Pakistan the Labor Party has at least a hundred ties with India.

Yet despite this historical comment the pressure is on Prime Minister Wilson now to do all he can to bring India to its senses before it is too late.

There is universal satisfaction here at the American suspension of aid to India and Pakistan. But this satisfaction is tempered by the fear that China may give aid and military supplies to Pakistan if the crisis continues. It is being said in London that the margin of time still available to avert the disaster of all-out war is to be measured in days rather than weeks. Hence the urgency of London's appeals and warnings to Pakistan and above all to India.

Flood of Students Is Now Upon Collegiate Institutions in State

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—One of the joys of living in Madison in the early autumn is the sight of thousands of bright young people coming to the campus of the University of Wisconsin to enroll for college studies for the first time. For the bystander who is an "old grad" in spirit, if not yet in chronological definition, there is something overwhelming in the numbers of such boys and girls today. This fall the resident student population of the university will be about 30,000, about triple the number in the early 1930s when this Outagamie County innocent enrolled there in ill-concealed trepidation.

Wyngaard

The story is the same at the other major campuses of the state-supported higher education program. Enrollment projections now reach such dizzying levels for the next few years that they tend to dull the comprehension of the legislators and policymakers to whom they are directed. Each time the mechanical calculating machines in the registrar's offices go into action, it seems, they produce estimates that are more startling.

Nobody who is seriously interested in the nature of state government financing problems during the decade ahead can have any illusions about the implications of the veritable flood of students.

THE OTHER SIDE

Yet there is another aspect of the scene that is as significant, and as satisfying, in its own way, as the political action in implications are formidable.

Was there ever a time in the history of the world when there were more attractive opportunities for the young man or woman of aptitude and will to achieve higher education. In hundreds of senior high schools in the state today the idea of enrollment at college is as commonly assumed as was enrollment in high school in the parental generation. The vast majority of such registrations, moreover, are at state-supported institutions. Without the limitless willingness of the people of Wisconsin to expand their tax liability for these programs, many of these young people would not be attending college this fall.

Today the idea of some graduate study after a bachelor's degree is as common as was undergraduate study a generation earlier. More than is commonly understood, the enormous inflation of the state's higher education budget is explained by the extension of the length of higher education into graduate levels, as well as by the swelling flood of first year students.

On every hand, moreover, there are tangible signs that the public commitment to aid the worthy student of slender means is being enlarged. The state student loan program is one of the most generous in the country. Private banking credit for students desiring loans for education is becoming more common. Study grants from the foundations and the schools and the national government are proliferating.

MONEY FOR STUDENTS

In Washington the Congress is on the verge of enacting a huge appropriation to subsidize the rising tide of college and university enrollments, including as its most significant feature the first national scholarship program for undergraduates.

Not to be outdone, the State Legislature of Wisconsin has taken a bold step in a new direction by writing a new law providing for tuition grants to students, according to their means, who want to enroll at private institutions. There may be a challenge of the validity of that statute, remembering the comparatively rigid state constitutional rule about the division of church and state and the prohibition of the use of public funds for private purposes. The courts will ultimately decide, probably.

What is more important at the moment is the attitude represented in the legislature's overwhelming approval of such an act. A quarter of a century ago, it would have been inconceivable. Today it scarcely stirs comment, in a community dedicated to the broadest educational opportunity.

Strictly Personal

First Dozen Pages Tell Value of Book

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If a layman walked into an operating room, picked up a scalpel, and began to hack away at the patient on the table, how long do you suppose it would take before the doctors and nurses realized the man was no surgeon?

Harris

Not more than a few seconds, of course. The same holds true for any profession.

Mark Twain, who was a Mississippi pilot for some years, once said he could pick up a sea story and know in a paragraph whether the author had ever worked on a ship.

My friends are sometimes shocked when I read a few pages of a new book, and then lay it down with the supreme conviction that it is not worth reading. "How can you tell it's no good until you try it?" they ask.

But this is precisely what distinguishes the professional from the amateur. I flatter myself that I can tell in 20 minutes if a play has anything to offer, and in a dozen pages if a book is capably written.

Last night, for instance, I picked up a new book that had been sent to me by the publisher. It dealt with words, a subject I am naturally most interested in.

The opening paragraph of the book, in the author's preface, told me all I wanted to know. He wrote, "A statement that is often attributed to the proverbial 'man in the street' is that . . ." And I put the book away.

In the first place, the phrase "man in the street" is not proverbial. It is colloquial, and it is trite. No seasoned writer would use it so loosely.

In the second place, no real writer would put the phrase in quotation marks. If it is worth using, it is worth using in itself. The quotation marks simply signify that the author is slightly ashamed of using so shopworn a phrase, and hopes to take the curse off it by enclosing it in quotes.

Minor matters? Perhaps. But not to a professional. The framed nose can smell bad writing as quickly as the layman can smell a bad egg. And it isn't necessary to devour half the egg in order to know it.

One reason that drama critics become the bitter and sullen creatures they often turn into is that duty forces them to sit through three tedious acts of a play, when they knew by 9 o'clock that it was a wasted evening.

We all want parlor diagnoses from our doctors, and curbstone opinions from our lawyers, but we resent it when the profession of letters tells us in a moment what it takes a whole evening to find out for ourselves.

fense production, told Parliament that India had achieved its objectives in two sectors. These, he said, were on the northern front around the Pakistani cities of Lahore and Sialkot, and about 600 miles to the south in southeastern Pakistan.

Won't Drop

Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan reportedly told members of Shastri's parliamentary party that in any cessation of hostilities the armies would stay where they are now until details could be worked out.

According to these reports, Thant had been unsuccessful in earlier efforts to persuade each side to drop the conditions they were demanding for a cease-fire.

Both India and Pakistan were claiming victory in ground fighting termed by New Delhi as the heaviest in the war. It centered in the Sialkot area about 250 miles northwest of New Delhi, the Indian capital, and 150 miles southwest of Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital. A major tank battle has been raging there.

Each side has rejected the other's conditions, it was reported, so Thant switched tactics and strove for a "cessation of hostilities." He was said to have told both nations the important thing was to stop the fighting before working out a formal cease-fire.

It was not known if Pakistan would agree to this formula, but observers said Thant had opened a way for both sides to end the bloodshed without losing face.

Added Strength

Thant's hand was apparently strengthened by support from the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union voiced alarm at the conflict and appealed anew Monday for both sides to stop fighting before they touch off a world explosion.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the Soviet attitude has been "helpful so far." Indian officials have admitted privately that it would be hard to resist economic pressure from the United States and the Soviet Union for a cease-fire. Both India and Pakistan are highly dependent on U.S. aid, and many Indian industrial projects are financed by the Soviet Union.

Both the Soviet Union and the United States expressed concern over recent Communist Chinese statements backing Pakistan and accusing India of aggression against Pakistan.

Rusk advised Peking to stay out of the conflict and added: "I think there are those who feel that China is fishing in these troubled waters."

Tass Statement

In Moscow, a statement distributed by the Soviet news agency Tass seemed to criticize Red China for siding with Pakistan and for raising the renewed threat of border hostilities with India.

A new Red Chinese statement, accused Thant of acting as "Washington's political broker" in his peace efforts. Peking charged the United Nations with "doing all it can to help the Indian reactionaries."

U.S. Air Force planes stood by to evacuate Americans from Lahore, barely 10 miles from the front, as U.S. and Pakistani officials removed obstacles to the operation. The airlift is expected to begin by midweek and include both Lahore and Dacca, capital of East Pakistan.

Iranian Premier Abbas Hoveida and Turkish Foreign Minister Hasan Isik arrived today for talks with Pakistani officials on aid for Pakistan's war with India.

Bhutto told newsmen he expected the visitors will stay through Wednesday at least. He considered it a possibility they would be in Rawalpindi when the U.N. Secretary-General U Thant returns to Pakistan from New Delhi. Bhutto would not rule out the possibility of a meeting between them.

bot Lodge greeted the troops when they landed. They were taken then by helicopters to bases in South Viet Nam's central highlands.

The troops, from Ft. Benning, Ga., have established a base camp at An Khe, 260 miles north of Saigon, U.S. authorities announced.

Several thousand of the battle-ready troops dug in around An Khe. They arrived Sunday at the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 35 miles to the east. A 700-man advance element has been at An Khe since mid-August making preparations.

Airlift Support

About 5,000 troops — about a quarter of the division and its supporting elements — were airlifted to the camp Monday.

An Khe is also the site of a large American Special Forces camp. It lies in a rolling valley on Route 19, a key artery stretching across the highlands from Qui Nhon to Pleiku.

The airmobile division — a new concept for U. S. armed forces — is capable of ranging swiftly by helicopter over rough and unfavorable terrain. It is expected to function as a major reaction force in the rugged highlands.

Elements of the Army's 101st Airborne Division have been at An Khe, clearing and securing the area. The paratroopers clashed periodically with small guerrilla units.

North Viet Nam assailed the United States for building up its troop strength in Viet Nam while President Johnson continued to talk of peace.

More Troops

In Washington, Pentagon sources said thousands more Army infantrymen are expected to be shipped to Viet Nam in a continuing build-up beyond the 125,000-man level announced by Johnson.

U.S. Marines in Viet Nam were praised by Lt. Gen. Richard Mangrum, assistant commander of the Marine Corps, who is inspecting installations there. The Marines "from top to bottom today are the best we have ever put into the field," Mangrum said.

In Detroit, a British journalist who has talked to representatives of North Viet Nam and of the Viet Cong said the barriers to peace in Southeast Asia are not insurmountable.

Lord

Fenner-Brockway, chairman of the British Council for Peace in Viet Nam, said the biggest obstacle to a peace settlement is North Viet Nam's insistence that the Viet Cong — not the Saigon government — represent South Viet Nam in any peace talks.

He said he was "quite definitely hopeful" that a settlement could be reached.

Papa Learns Daughter Is Miss America

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Hurley D. Bryant returned to a military base in northeastern Thailand today and discovered that his daughter had been selected Miss America 1966.

"I'm thrilled," he said.

"I knew that she was in the contest representing Kansas but her selection comes as a surprise to me — a very happy surprise."

His daughter, Deborah, 19, won the title Saturday in Atlantic City, N.J.

Bryant of Overland Park, Kan., is a fire prevention engineer assigned to the 13th Air Force at Clark Air Base in the Philippines. He is on temporary assignment in Thailand, and returned early today to the Udorn base, 350 miles northeast of Bangkok.

U.S. military officials had tried to locate him since Sunday to relay news of his daughter's selection.

Deborah was in New York today, being fitted for the wardrobe she'll wear during her one-year reign.

Communications remained erratic in the lowlying Mississippi River delta area stretching south of here, lashed by Betsy with the full force of 150 m.p.h. winds and devastating tides.

However, most of the weather-wise inhabitants of the fishermen's villages and oil worker communities had cleared out ahead of the storm, moving north to New Orleans.

At New Orleans, where the eastern side and its suburbs were hit by sudden and unexpected flooding after Betsy passed, the water receded slowly.

The New Orleans Levee Board said it was checking the possibility that new cuts in the Intercoastal Canal levee might speed the drainage. However, much of the lowlying area will have to be pumped dry by the system of pumping stations, which have been hampered by hurricane damage.

The Red Cross said it expects to spend about $5 million to help hurricane victims in Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama — about $4 million of it in Louisiana.

and six brothers and sisters from a ramshackle pre-quent farm home on Aberdeen's outskirts to their present estate, and is putting lots of money in the bank for the quints' future.

That kind of money comes from exclusivity, from carefully rationed glimpses the world gets of the quints via certain magazines and advertising media. These contracts were signed after intensely competitive bidding not long after the quints' birth. If humane considerations for the babies didn't keep a curious world at arm's length, business considerations would.

Income Estimate

Educated estimates of the Fischers' annual income from these sources range up to $250,000. Under court jurisdiction, the bulk of it is put in trust for the quints and their brothers and sisters.

Meanwhile, Andy Fischer happily cares for the 800-acre cattle ranch the new wealth made possible. Mrs. Fischer, a conscientious mother, looks after the children, with a hired housekeeper. Never active socially, the average-looking parents appear occasionally at civic or social functions, still shy at the spotlight.

Festival Suggested For Fair Grounds

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Moses, president of the World's Fair, has suggested a summer music festival might be held on would be in Rawalpindi when the fairgrounds.

The fair next month ends a two-year run and there has been considerable debate over what will be done with the buildings and grounds.

Deaconess Phyllis Edwards receives communion during her investiture as a member of the fourth order of the ministry of the Episcopal Church Monday by Bishop James A. Pike in San Francisco's Grace Cathedral. The rites confirmed action taken last week by the Episcopal House of Bishops clarifying ministerial status of deaconesses. Her title is the Rev. Mrs. Edwards.
